DEDICATE SCHOOL WITH SPEECHES, MUSIC, SONGS

Foothill Improvement Club Has Charge of Social Time Last Night

The hospitality of the Foothill Improvement association was manifested last night at the house warming of the new Grand View school.

An atmosphere of sociability prevailed during the entire evening. Visitors from various sections of Glendale and Burbank were welcomed. Members of the association took especial pains to see that the event was one long to be remembered.

Congratulations were extended by numerous speakers to the parents of the district for having secured such a creditable grammar school in their district. There was a distinct note of pride in the responses.

Guests of honor were members of the school faculty including: Miss Vera Sinclair, principal; Miss Ella E. Gray, Miss Helen Reynolds and Miss Sara E. Dunn.

Program Pleases

Although brief, the entertainment feature of the program more than came up to the expectations of the audience.

A monologue by Harry James of 1558 West Wilson avenue was well received.

Original violin compositions by Julius Kranz of 115 West Eulalia street were pronounced particularly delightful by the audience. One of them, "Melodie for G String" was played entirely upon the G string of the violin. The encore was a fantasie entitled "Enchantment." Mr. Kranz was accompanied upon the piano by Miss Gertrude Champlain of 441 Hawthorne street whose piano playing is of a well-known high quality.

Two tenor solos were sung by Wilbur Herwig of 339 West Colorado street accompanied by his wife. Both were well applauded. The first was "For All Eternity" by Mascheroni while the second was "Then You'll Remember" by Balfe.

HOME FROM VISIT IN MIDDLE WEST

J. Mac McMillan Family In Glendale Again After Two Months Away

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mac McMillan and daughter, Eleanor, of 350 West Broadway arrived home Thursday night from a two months' visit in the middle west.

They made the trip east by the Canadian Pacific and visited at various places in Minnesota and Illinois. While in Illinois they visited at their former home near Monmouth. They returned to California by the middle route stopping in Nebraska, Colorado and Utah.

"So many travelers report settled railroad conditions, but we did not find it so," says Mr. McMillan. "On every train we rode on we noted an inharmonious atmosphere. It was impossible to get information from any of the employes and in all our journeying we rode on only one train that was on time. Furthermore the majority of the engines are unable to haul the loads. In Canada we found ideal railroad accommodations and service."

Glendale Elks Win Golf Contest Cup

TELLS CONDITIONS LEARNED ON TOUR ABOUT IRELAND

W. J. Clendenin, With Record of 27 Atlantic Round Trips, Gives Views

An interesting comparison of trans-Atlantic travel today and twenty-five years ago is given by W. J. Clendenin, former Glendale resident, now liing at 1228 West Fifth street, Los Angeles, who, with Mrs. Clendenin, returned recently from a three months' visit in Ireland.

Mr. Clendenin has made twenty-seven round trips across the Atlantic and he says of his first trip:

"The first trip I made across the Atlantic twenty-five years ago was on a steamer called the Carrol, a 1000-ton liner, carrying possibly 200 passengers. We made the trip from Baltimore to Liverpool in fourteen days. This time we made the trip Mrs. Clendenin and I were passengers on the White Star liner Majestic, a 56,000-ton liner, carrying over 5000 passengers and making the trip across in six days.

Both Cold and Rain

"When we arrived we made a short visit of three days in London, which we found very cold and rainy. You know everything is unusual in California, but over there everything is usual and one must stand the rain and cold. But we preferred to go on to Ireland, where we visited at the old home of my parents in Ballymoney, Ulster province in the north of Ireland. It had been nine years since our last visit so we found the renewing of old acquaintances particularly enjoyable.

"When going over from England into Ireland we had a very funny experience in the custom house. When the revenue officers looked through our things they found an ear acousticon belonging to Mrs. Clendenin. They were unfamiliar with such an instrument, and, after handling it with care and viewing it from all angles they asked what it was and when told an acousticon they were more puzzled than before and asked for a further explanation. When we told them it was to assist one in

H. E. COLBY IN GLENDALE AGAIN

Rapid Rise In Values of City Property Shown In Sale of Lot

H. E. Colby has just returned to Glendale after an absence of several years spent in various parts of the United States.

Until about seven years ago Mr. Colby was actively engaged in the real estate business in Glendale, and was the owner of the lot at the northeast corner of Brand and Lomita avenue.

His office was familiar to the folks of Glendale, being the little log cabin, the uniqueness of which has attracted the attention of many newcomers.

The price paid for the property is said to have been $1,500 while it was sold for $8,000, according to Mr. Colby. The price today is in the $40,000 class, says Mr. Colby.

The headquarters of the Glendale Republican club at 108 South Brand boulevard will be open tonight until 9:30 o'clock to afford an opportunity for republicans of Glendale to visit the headquarters and also offer their services as volunteers in the republican campaign, according to Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, executive secretary.

Among the interesting pictures of prominent republicans, both present and past, which are hung at the club quarters is one of President Harding, which was received by Mrs. Adelaide Imler of Glendale from a relative of hers in Marion, Ohio, who is an intimate friend of the Harding family.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Oct. 14.—In a political speech of supreme importance, in which he claimed that British policy in the near east prevented another world war, Premier Lloyd George strongly indicated today that he is prepared to resign at once from the premiership. The premier made the startling revelation that two million Greek and Armenian Christians have been slaughtered by the Turks since 1914. REPORTS FIRST HUMAN GLAND THEFT IN HISTORY

McKechnie, president of the Chicago Medical society, announced that his organization would do everything in its power to aid the police. The victim of the gland theft was Joseph Wozniak, a laborer, who came here recently from the Wisconsin beet fields. According to the story Wozniak told Dr. A. Sampolinski, who reported the case to the police, he was walking along a street when an automobile drew up, four men leaped out, threw a bag over his head, and dragged him into the machine. Many of the passengers danced despite a decided list of the ship. The passengers were loud in their praise for all of the officers and crew, messages to friends said. The passengers were reported to have passed a comfortable night on board the Thomas, army officers on board giving up their state rooms and sleeping on deck in order to afford their unexpected guests every comfort.

POLITICAL LEADERS PLAN TO SPEED UP CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The comparative quiet that has thus far marked the conduct of the national political campaign ends with today. Starting next week the accelerator will be "stepped on" by both major parties all along the line. The country is to be drenched with a drum fire of political oratory for the next three weeks in a volume not often witnessed in off years. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis opened his national tour at Wilmington, Del., last night with a smashing attack on the Wilson administration and a vigorous defense of the change in policies that have been inaugurated under the Harding administration. Speaking as a cabinet officer, Davis criticized the administration of Woodrow Wilson with a vehemence unusual in cabinet speeches, terming it "a saturnalia of misgovernment," and accusing it of having "bartered away our diplomatic birthright for a mess of sticky sentimentalism."

HARRY GIRARD IS GIVEN GREETING BY KIWANIANS

Hobbles In Luncheon Room on Crutches and Gets Regular Welcome

Harry Girard was given a royal welcome yesterday noon at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Kiwanis club. The meeting was held as usual in the west side of the dining room in the Broadway Inn.

About the middle of the session William C. Page announced the arrival of Mr. Girard in an automobile. Instantly five or six members of the club left the tables to carry him into the room. They were surprised and pleased to find that Mr. Girard, with the aid of crutches, was able to hobble into the room himself.

Mr. Girard's appearance on the scene was greeted with hilarious applause. As soon as he had arrived and taken a chair at the end of the table, "Ollie" Andresen, song leader of the club, led those present in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

A short speech of response was made by Mr. Girard, who stated that his first desire, upon being told by his physician that he could walk a little, was to attend the next session of the Kiwanis club. He expressed a keen interest in the club, an ardent desire to affiliate with it, and a wish to participate in its activities. An application blank was handed to him at once, but before he could fill it out, motion was made by M. B. Towman that Mr. Girard should be granted an honorary membership. This suggestion was unanimously approved.

"I hardly know how to express my appreciation of this signal honor," asserted Mr. Girard.

Although he had sung one song, "Dear Old Pal," already, Mr. Girard joined Mayor Spencer Robinson in singing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Following a short speech by A. L. Ferguson, vice-principal of Glendale Union High school, during which he presented statistics in regard to the increasing high

PARADE, FOOTBALL BATTLE, BANQUET ARMISTICE DAY

Local Legion Post Makes Arrangements to Conduct Great Celebration

Headed by a monster parade in the morning and finishing up with a grand ball at night Armistice Day in Glendale this year promises to be the biggest celebrated holiday in the city's history. All of this will be the case if plans formulated last night at the regular weekly meeting of the Glendale Post of the American legion are carried out. The legionnaires unanimously voted to stage a parade on the morning of November 11, and it is their plan to have the affair exceed that of last year in both size and beauty.

Jesse Smith, local auto agent, was selected as chairman of the committee on arrangements, his fellow members being Emil O. Kiefer of the Pulliam, Kiefer & Eyerick Undertaking company, and Robert Plume of the Monarch Auto Supply company. Plans are under way whereby the local ex-service men's organization will be joined in the celebration by legion posts from Eagle Rock, Tujunga, La Crescenta, Burbank, San Fernando, Lankershim and Van Nuys.

Big Football Game

Following the parade, which is scheduled to be over at 12 o'clock, the next part of the day's program will be the big football game on the high school grounds between the two best squads in the Pacific fleet. Special arrangements have been made through fleet authorities at San Pedro for the transportation to this city of the regular first grid teams in addition to several hundred "gobs" who will form their own rooting section.

The winners of the contest will automatically become champions of the fleet and will bring into their permanent possession the huge loving cup which is being arranged by the post.

Preliminary Battle

Prior to the big game, a preliminary contest, beginning at 1:30 o'clock, will be played between the high school lightweight squad and an opponent to be announced at a latter date. Coach Normal C. Hayhurst of the high school is co-operating with R. E. Miles of the legion post to make the football games the biggest athletic event ever staged in Glendale.

Although no definite arrangements have yet been made as to the nature of the day's program following the football game, the tentative plans call for a huge banquet immediately following the gridiron clash, and this to be followed by a ball in the legion hall, 610 East Broadway.

At the initiatory part of last night's meeting the following ex-soldiers and sailors were taken into the post: George M. Palmer, Dr. O. A. Dieterich, Clarence E. Hall, Edwin J. Sadler and Eugene J. Wix.

ANNOUNCE GAMES FOR SUNDAY AT EAGLE ROCK

Glendale K. of C. Baseball Team to Play Merchants; Expect Hot Battle

The Eagle Rock merchants, with "Sonnie" Hancock at the helm will play the Glendale Knights of Columbus baseball team Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Eagle Rock park.

An extra good game is promised. The Eagle Rock boys have been at practice every afternoon, and the defects that showed up in the double header last Sunday when they went down to defeat in both games have been entirely eliminated, declares Hancock.

"The weak spots have been entirely remedied. Most of the errors last Sunday were simply due to lack of practice, and the lineup for Sunday's game will show up one hundred per cent better in performance than they did a week ago," he stated.

Are Strong Team

The Glendale Knights of Columbus are known as a strong team, that have many wins to their credit and there is no doubt but what the game Sunday will be a snappy one.

The Merchants' line-up for the game is: Lundy, catcher; Gee, first base; Ferguson, second base; Watts, shortstop; Binkley, third base; Connett, center field; Sprinkle, right field; Hecox, left field.

Hancock is holding back his choice of pitchers until just before the game is called at 2 o'clock, but he intimates it will be either Stice, Kubeck or Berry who will do the twirling for the Merchants.

A number of old experienced baseball fans who have seen the Merchants in action declare that Hancock really has some first-class ball players and all that is necessary to make a star team is practice and a little closer team work, and they will be able to beat any team in this section.

TAXES TOO HIGH, COMPLAINTS NOW

Eagle Rock Citizens Up In Arms After Receiving Tax Notices, Word

A number of Eagle Rock citizens who received their tax notices the last few days are up in arms, declaring that their taxes are almost double what they paid last year.

"I don't believe there is hardly anyone who would sell their property at the figure it is assessed at," declared Ben Martsolf, city clerk.

"People who complain should stop to consider that their property has enhanced almost double in value within the past year, and they surely shouldn't kick about that."

As a matter of fact, the Eagle Rock tax rate is lower than it was last year, and it is not the fault of the tax rate that taxes this year are higher, it is declared. It is the increased assessed property valuation that is doing it, is the explanation.

TYPEWRITERS AND SUPPLIES

The department of commerce announces that the census reports show considerable decrease in the activities of the establishments engaged in the manufacture of typewriters and supplies during 1921, as compared with the year 1919. Seventy-four establishments reported products valued at $41,621,047 for 1921, as compared with eighty-eight establishments having products valued at $52,737,661 for 1919. The decrease in the total value of products was 21.1 per cent.

The decrease in production has been accompanied by corresponding decrease in the number of persons employed; in the total amount paid during the year in salaries and wages, and in the cost of materials. There was considerable fluctuation in the monthly wage-earners in 1921. In January, the month of maximum employment, 16,101 wage-earners were reported, and in August, the month of minimum employment, 9012—the minimum representing 56 per cent of the maximum employment. A classification of the wage-earners shows that 11,257 or 84.6 per cent of the total number were employed in establishments where the prevailing hours of labor per week were between forty-eight and fifty-four. For 1759, or 13.2 per cent of the total, the prevailing hours were forty-eight or less; and for 293, or 2.2 per cent of the total, fifty-four or more.

TIGERS LOSE AGAIN AND SEALS WIN; IT'S ALL OVER

No Chance of Vernon Being Able to Connect With Championship Rag

Los Angeles virtually "added insult to injury" yesterday afternoon when Wade Killefer and his crew of "dope annihilators" trampled unmercifully on the skidding Vernon Tigers, who are now three and one-half games behind the leading San Francisco Seals. Vernon's only chance now is to hope for a tie for the league leadership, which will necessitate them winning all of their three remaining games from the Angels, while the Seals are dropping four up in 'Frisco. Taking things all together, and with a likelihood of an intervention by one Jupiter Pluvius, the Bengals' chances for the 1922 pennant are about as good as are those of the proverbial snowball.

Hitless Wonders

Now, to come back to yesterday's game at Washington Park. It was the first time this season in which a game has been won by a squad registering but three measly hits. The Seraphs are fast becoming famed as rivals to the well known "hitless wonders" of Chicago of days gone by. Being outhit in practically every contest of the series, they have managed to pull the 'ole' strategy that has slipped over the winning marker on three separate occasions. While Big Bill James and Jim Jolly were hurling their heads off for the Maier-men Bob Wallace, youthful Angel prodigy, was pitching even a better game than was being exhibited by his opponents. He allowed but a half dozen hits, no two of which were registered in the same round. He was never in trouble after the first inning, when Vernon's only run was brought in.

Los Angeles' runs were made in the sixth and seventh innings, respectively, when both the Tiger hurlers were literally "bunted off their feet." Short raps between the pitcher's box and home plate were successfully made by Twombly, Baldwin, Wallace and Carroll, the fusillade completely baffling the opposing mound artists and causing them to leave the pill in the general direction of right field.

San Francisco continued to play the same high class ball that has featured their work all season, Jim Scott out-hurling "Buzz" Arlett in a torrid pitchers' battle. The final score was 2 to 0, San Francisco's runs being scored in the fourth and eighth rounds, when five of their eight hits were garnered. Howard's Oaks managed to glean but four safeties off the twisters of old "Death Valley" Jim, two of them coming in the ninth inning.

Little Georgie Lee, world's champion Chinese boxer who has within a short time become one of the prime favorites at Southern California squared circle activities, last night lost lost his first decision in several weeks when he was outpointed by "Dandy Dick" Griffin in the main event at the weekly boxing card at the Hollywood American Legion stadium. The bout was tame from start to finish, Griffin putting up the poorest fight he has ever exhibited here.

Bill Ketchell, sensational welterweight of San Diego, won a decided edge over Jimmy Marcus in the semi-windup, which was easily the feature of the evening. The other bouts resulted as follows: Spec Woods gained a decision over Sailor Vincent, Kid Moha outpointed Pete Herman, Fred Brady beat Mike Nestor, Red Uhlan defeated Johnny Lee, Jimmy Farr trimmed Sailor Bernardo.

UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL CAPTAINS By WOOD COWAN

"RED"
ROBERTS
ALL AMERICAN END WHO WILL CAPTAIN A STRONG CENTRE COLLEGE TEAM THIS SEASON. THIS LITTLE KENTUCKY SCHOOL TROUNCED HARVARD LAST YEAR AND ROBERTS WAS ITS STAR
I CONCENTRATED MY ATTACK ON THE WRONG GUY WHEN I PICKED OUT THAT BIRD FOR A SOFT SPOT
HARVARD
IN THE GAME AGAINST HARVARD LAST YEAR ROBERTS STOOD THE BLUNT OF THE CRIMSON ATTACK. HE WAS EVERY PLACE, SEEMINGLY, BREAKING UP HARVARD FORMATIONS
PLAYS BOTH END AND BACK FIELD AND IS THE LEADING FACTOR IN CENTRE'S ATTACK AS WELL AS DEFENSE
WOOD COWAN
JUST GET BEHIND ME, BOYS, AND WE'LL GO RIGHT THRU 'EM !!
AL'RIGHT RED, WE'RE RIGHT BEHIND YOU
SEEMS T'US THAT ROBERTS SHOULD JUST ABOUT BE A TEAM UNTO HIMSELF THIS SEASON AT CENTRE

Probably there never was gathered as colorful a football team as Centre sent against Harvard two years ago. Undefeated for three years, these youngsters from Kentucky came east and about every heart, east and west, was with them.

This wonder eleven, with scarcely enough equipment to go around, sailed into the big eastern school and held her even for two quarters—when by main strength and substitutes the Crimson managed to win 31 to Centre's 14.

But last season the boys from the south came back one year stronger and that much more efficient. With practically the same team intact, Centre handed the Cambridge school a fine lacing and "Red" Roberts, along with McMillin, the quarterback, were the big factors in the victory.

Harvard has been criticized for directing so many plays against Roberts in the game with Centre last year. But it was not so much the direction of any attack, as it was the fact that Roberts covered so much ground and was always on the spot.

"Red" is a big, heavy set, fast fellow who can hit a line, make a pass, and possesses untiring endurance. It was his strength on the defensive, coupled with his all-round ability, that made Roberts the All-American choice as end.

But just one more word in regard to Centre's football triumphs. All the glory should not go to the players. Charley Moran, the old National league umpire, coaches Centre, and Charley has a way about him.

Weaver, all-American center, who three years ago set a record by kicking 46 consecutive goals from touchdown, was asked by Eddie Mohan, Harvard's backfield coach, how he (Weaver) had been able to make such a remarkable run of goals.

"Well," began Weaver, when I first started to kick goals, Uncle Charley took me out on the gridiron and showed me the goal posts. 'You see those posts?' he asked, 'Well, those posts don't move. The ball does; so keep your eyes on the ball'."

That's the kind of coaching that makes a team; and Moran's system certainly has proven its worth at Centre.

GIANTS WILL FACE HEAVIER GOING NEXT SEASON

Team to Have Real Battle and Not Likely Again to Be Favorites

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. — Regardless of what success the New York Giants have had in the 1922 pennant race, the team will have to be strenghtened to do as good or better next season. Looking at the 1923 season this far in advance, it will take a real team to beat the Cubs, the Reds and the Pirates next year and McGraw hasn't a whale of a team, unless he gets some pitchers this winter.

Perhaps Jock Scott will get his arm back this winter. McQuillin may go better and Barnes may get back to winning form, but it is a gamble.

Fans are wondering where McGraw will place Jimmy O'Connell, his $75,000 beauty from the Pacific Coast. It is apparently the Giant leader's purpose to play him in the outfield, because he had the San Francisco club switch him from first base and give him a year in the outfield.

Rather Expensive

McGraw often has said that it takes at least one year on the bench to make a real Giant player, but it is inconceivable that he would allow a $75,000 article to hide within the shadows of the dugout.

To get a place in the outfield O'Connell will have to displace Irish Meusel, Pep Young, Casey Stengel or Bill Cunningham. Stengel, of course, was a freak this season and he could be displaced, but many critics from the Pacific Coast consider Cunningham a more valuable player than O'Connell.

After what the team did this year, the experts hardly will consider the St. Louis Cards seriously in the future unless some changes, are made in the club. The Cards had the grandest chance in the world to win the National League pennan- this year. The Giants were hanging around almost inviting a defeat when the Cards turned over.

Many of the sages blame the collapse of the team on Branch Rickey, the theory expert and blackboard manager of the club. Rickey disrupted his pitching staff, that he burdened his club with so many signals and trick plays that they were at sea most of the time.

Makes Funny Move

It is a cinch that something blasted a good pitching staff. All during the hottest part of the mid-season battle, Rickey used three and four pitchers in every game. He also made a funny move when he benched Jack Fournier, a good first baseman, and put in his place Bottomly, a rookie, whose misplays lost a number of critical games. It also was a funny move to use rookies in the outfield in important series.

Under Bill McKenchie, the Pittsburg Pirates have been given new life. The Pirates have looked like pennant winners for several years, but something was always wrong with the team and it looks on the surface like the trouble rested in the management. If the Pirates do not win the 1922 pennant, they will be the ranking favorite in 1923.

In the American league, the Yanks, Browns and Tigers no doubt will fight it out all the way with the White Sox as the dark horse.

YALE - IOWA GAME DRAWS CROWD TO COLLEGE TOWN

More Than 50,000 Fans Attend Contest; Brothers Meet In Coaching

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 14. —The staid old college town awoke today to find itself fairly inundated with transients from all points of the east and middle west here for the greatest intersectional clash of the 1922 football season, the meeting of Yale and Iowa. Upwards of 50,000 fans, a typical football crowd, gay, colorful, expectant, are on the ground and waiting for the big game.

It is a record-breaking gathering for an October game in the Yale bowl and justifiably so. Not only was Iowa the 1921 champion of the western conference and Yale an undefeated eastern leader to almost the very last day of that season, but a further inducement is provided by the fact that the game is something of a modernized Cain and Abel vendetta.

Face One Another

Back around 1907 and 1908, Tad and Howard Jones, brothers, were undergraduates at Yale and remarkable football and baseball players.

Subsequently, both coached at Exeter and Yale itself, Howard holding forth there directly after his graduation and Tad in 1916 and from 1920 to the present. Now, after fifteen years, they face one another from opposite sides of a gridiron, Ted as head coach at Yale, Howard as head coach at Iowa. Thus the always interesting brother vs. brother element serves to heighten the appeal of a most unusual game. Odds on the game are non-existent.

Gibbons-Miske Bout Under Investigation

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Efforts of Billy Miske to fight his way back into another bout with Jack Dempsey collapsed with a flat thud today as the result of his somewhat doubtful victory over Tommy Gibbons on a foul last night in the tenth round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout.

Twenty-seven seconds after the tenth round had started, Gibbons shot a short right jolt to the body. Miske sank to the floor, his face distorted into a painful grimace and his hands clutched over his groin. Referee McPartland was not in a position to see the blow and asked the opinion of Artie McGovern, one of the judges. McGovern ruled it was a foul punch and Gibbons was then disqualified.

Previous to the unsatisfactory ending, Gibbons had given Miske a thorough trouncing.

The sudden ending of the fight proved unsatisfactory to a crowd of more than 13,000 who jammed the garden. Miske was roundly booed when he left the ring, but Gibbons, who appeared stunned at his disqualification, came in for wild cheers.

The boxing commission ordered the purses of both Gibbons and Miske held up, pending an investigation of the bout.

The World Over By Franklin B. Morse. Pacific Sports Service

A year ago in the world series the personality of Babe Ruth dominated all talk of the world series, and as long as he played, before his physical condition made it necessary to remove him, interest centered on his work in the field and particularly at bat. Things have been subjected to a marked change. Ruth no longer stands out, not even among mediocrity. Other names have superseded his in the public interest. The world's series has demonstrated this. Frightened pitchers no longer hand him bases on balls gratuitously.

If Babe Ruth has finally been convinced that he is not greater than the national game itself, and behaves himself, there seems to be no reason why, next year he should not lead all the other major league players in the number of home runs knocked out. It seems only fair to assume that had he begun the season this year with the rest of the players he would have topped the list although there is considerable question as to whether he would have exceeded the home run record he set in 1921.

It would be interesting to know who formulates the odds that prevail in the betting on baseball. Of course it is known that the basis on which 7 to 5 and even 8 to 5 were offered on the chances of the Yankees in the world series was the alleged superiority of the American league club's pitchers. As a matter of fact, with the usual exceptions, baseball is a game which is essentially a toss-up when it comes to determining a winner. When a so-called expert, with an elaborate system of figures determines that the Yankees will win a game by a score of 9 to 3 and it turns out 3 to 2 in favor of the Giants, the futility of the whole thing is apparent. However, the fact remains that the fans like the so-called "dope" however fruitless it may be. Sports followers get as much fun, if not more, before a contest figuring on the pros and cons than they do in the actual results.

It will soon be in order for the football experts to hand out their opinions of the relative strengths of the various teams through the medium of relative scores. As a matter of fact, however, it is easier to arrive at football possibilities than it is to prognosticate baseball likelihoods.

Many Football Teams Hold Contests Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Intercollegiate football will ring the bell today with the first really important games of the 1922 season, the most noteworthy of which is the meeting of Yale and Iowa, coached respectively by Tad and Howard Jones, in the Yale bowl. It is one of the biggest intersectional games of a decade.

Other inter-sectional meetings of importance include those of the Army and Auburn at West Point; Vanderbilt and Michigan at Nashville and Georgetown and Cincinnati at Washington, D. C.

The western conference season gets away running, games between Chicago and Northwestern at Chicago and Indiana and Minnesota at Indianapolis being a feature.

Other outstanding attractions involve Pittsburg and West Virginia at Pittsburg; Drake and Kansas at Des Moines; Georgia Tech and Alabama at Atlanta; Iowa State and Missouri at Ames; Princeton and Colgate at Princeton; Harvard and Bowdoin at Cambridge; Ohio State and Oberlin at Columbus; Washington and Idaho at Seattle; Brown and Syracuse at Providence; California and St. Mary's at Berkeley, and Pennsylvania and Maryland at Philadelphia.

Pacific Coast Teams In Seasoning Scraps

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Football contests on the Pacific coast today were of the seasoning variety. Several lively scraps were in prospect. Locally, St. Mary's clashed at Berkeley with the University of California, and Santa Clara hooked up with Stanford at Palo Alto.

University of Southern California was expected to defeat Arizona at Los Angeles.

The Sport Crucible By Davis J. Walsh International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—If ever a team faced a form-fitting outlook for a successful football season that team is now being jockeyed into condition within the shadow of the famed New Haven elms. Yale hasn't had a championship since the salad days of Ted Coy, back around 1908. From year to year sanguine reports have had the Bulldog coming back to past greatness, but he never has quite arrived.

In 1916 he beat both Harvard and Princeton, with Harry Legore in the backfield, but previous defeats by Brown university and others pock-marked the season's record. Last year a victory by Harvard ruined an otherwise impeccable season.

The 1922 ensemble, however, seems to be fool-proof. Mac Aldrich is the only player of any consequence lost by graduation. Mac, of course, is by the way something to lose, but those remaining are so gifted and numerous that the team should carry on, regardless, or forever hold its collective peace.

What college, for instance, can muster three quarterbacks of the calibre of Charley O'Hearn, who runs, kicks and passes with the best; Becket and "Dynamite" Murphy A set of veteran backs like Jordan, Mallory, Kelly and Neidlinger, who may be the sensation of the year, to say nothing of Bench and Knapp, new entries of no slight prominence?

A quartet of ends—Hulman, Blair, Cutler and Mike Eddy—veterans all? Or a set of forwards including Cruikshank, Landis, Cross, Quaile, Norris and Diller, not one of whom has had less than a season of varsity experience?

With the exception of O'Hearn there is not an outstanding star in the lot, but any coach would give a month's salary to muster aroond him sixteen or more men who have played under his guiding eye for two or three years.

That is Tad Jones' sinecure at New Haven this year, and if he doesn't deliver now he never will. The statement is not made with the idea that Jones must win every game. Few football coaches can guarantee to do that nowadays. He will be delivering to the satisfaction of all concerned if he can win or get a tie with Brother Howard's Iowa state team today, and the Army October 28, and top this off by disposing of his arch-rivals, Princeton and Harvard, in the season's finale.

This done, the remainder of the schedule can do its worst.

Sports Chatter By Bill Unmack Pacific Sports Service

Considerable has been said about the peculiar bottle shaped bat Heine Groh uses. Groh has gone the limit that the rule allows in the diameter of a bat which is two and one-half inches. A meeting of baseball club officials in New York in 1859—March 5th, to be correct—the gathering decided that a rule be established that no bat be more than two and one-half inches in diameter, and that rule still stands though very few bats of that size are used.

Talking about games called on account of darkness, we wonder if any of the present day fans remember the first tie baseball game ever played, and it was "called" for just the same reason the umpires called the second game of the present world series—darkness.

The original tie score extra inning game was played October 26, 1854, and was called at the end of the twelfth inning with the score 12 all. The contesting teams were the Knickerbockers and the Gothams. In those days a team had to score 21 runs (then called aces). In the ninth inning the score was Knickerbockers 11, Gotham 9, and the game had to be continued. In the twelfth inning the score was 12 all and darkness put an end to the battle. Yes, we can give you the batteries of that memorable game: Van Cott and Vail for Gotham, with Dick and De Best for the Knickerbockers. Note further that catchers Vail and De Best used their bare hands to take the ball with and had no protection of any kind. What a difference to present day baseball!

In these days when hundreds of thousands of words are written about the world series it is interesting to note that prior to 1853 not one word about baseball was written in the daily press. The first professional baseball writer was William Cauldwell, proprietor and editor of the New York Sunday Mercury. He wrote his first story on baseball in April, 1853.

The Giants' victory in the third game of the world series when they "shut out" the Yankees 3 to 0 prompted us to hunt up the records and see when the first "shut out" game was played. We find that the Chicago team shut out the St. Louis team May 12, 1875, this being the first game on record in organized professional baseball to be registered.

Back in 1862 the price of admission to a ball game was 10 cents, but at times in more important games the charge was 25 cents. In 1869 the Cincinnati Reds boosted the admission price to 50 cents. Years have naturally made great changes in baseball and the prices of admission have altered considerably since the days of '69 and prior thereto. Wonder how many present day ball players or club owners would agree to a 10-cent admission today.

REPAIR MAN CAN HOLD YOUR AUTO

Pay Your Bills Or Garage Owner Has Legal Right to Retain Machine

The relation between a garage keeper or repair man and the motorist is that of bailor and bailee and their rights and liabilities are to be determined according to such relation, says the legal department of the California State Automobile association.

The rights of a garage keeper have been very definitely decided in the law, one of the principal ones being that a lien which he is allowed upon a motor vehicle for storage thereof and repairs made to it.

In some states the statutes make this lien dependent upon possession of the property and when the property is allowed to be taken away the lien is lost. Such is the rule in California. In other states, notwithstanding that the property is removed from the premises of the garage, the lien may still attach. In either case, however, the existence of the lien in no way affects the validity of the debt and the owner is entitled to recover the agreed price for storage or repairs, or in the absence of an agreement, the reasonable value of services and material furnished. In many cases this may exceed the actual value of the automobile and the lien on same may be of value to satisfy only a portion of the debt.

There are a great many cases where repairs are ordered to an automobile by the party operating the same at the time, he having no authority to enter into such an agreement with the garage man In such case the garbage keeper should assure himself of the authority of such a party, according to Gage vs. Callanan, 112 N. Y., Suppl. 227, which, in substance, states that the chauffeur had no implied or apparent authority to order permanent repairs to the car, all of which was evident to the garage man, for he placed no reliance upon the word of the chauffeur, writing the owner himself for instructions. The owner ignored his letters. The court held that the garage man could not recover upon his repair bill from the owner. In other words, it resolves itself down to the simple proposition of a contract between the garage man and the party ordering the repairs.

Take Particular Care

In the case of the person leaving the vehicle with the garage man, having no authorization from the owner thereof to order repairs, he himself, and not the owner, is

10,600,000 Cars Now Operating on U. S. Roads

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—If all the automobiles in the United States were to take to the road at the same time, end to end, the line would extend four-fifths of the distance around the world at the equator, or seven lines from New York to San Francisco.

President George C. Diehl of the American Automobile association said today there are 10,600,000 cars in the United States, which, if stretched end to end, would extend 20,000 miles.

COURTESY MOVE BY MOTOR CLUB

Begin Campaign In Chicago That Finds Favor With Dealer and Driver

"Courtesy," a watchword," is the basis of a program which has been instituted in Cook and adjoining counties in Illinois by the Illinois Automobile club, Chicago, which is affiliated with the National Motorists' association.

This campaign has as its objective the exercise of consideration for the other fellow. As explained by Manager Carter, very many motorists who display the rectitude of good behavior in the living room are often prone to adopt a policy of indifference to others when dashing across the country or through a city thoroughfare. .

This campaign has struck a chord of popular favor with not only the motorists and the trade, but also the public at large, according to reports received by officers of the Illinois Automobile club. The program is largely educational in character and has received the indorsement of the N. M. A. as one of its cardinal principles, i. e., to keep the automobile in good standing in the community, in the state and throughout the nation.

Drive Car Slowly

A new car should not be driven more than twenty-five miles per hour for the first 100 miles, and thirty miles per hour for the next 400 miles.

OFFERS PLAN TO CURB SPEEDERS

Director of Motor Vehicle Department Would Take Automobile Away

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—Director C. J. Chenu of the State Motor Vehicle department has a new system for punishing careless and fast drivers which he believes will be more efficient than the jail sentences judges are imposing for first offense cases of careless or fast driving.

Chenu would not put the offender in jail except in extreme cases and except when the arrest was for driving while intoxicated. He would inflict a more severe punishment which he believes would go further towards stopping careless and fast driving than jail sentence. He would deny absolutely the use of an automobile of any description during the period of probation.

Bitter Punishment

"To put a man in jail for a day or a week is not to punish him so much as it is to punish his wife and children," said Chenu. "The innocent suffer by such action more than the guilty one. I would take the car away and not permit the offender to drive, ride in a car or truck or motorcycle, either his own, a friend's or a public conveyance.

"How many men would not be punished severely by being forced to take street cars, trains and walk, who otherwise would use a car. It would be bitter punishment, and would make him think in the future. Besides he would catch all kinds of rebuke from his family, especially if he was the only driver, and they could not go out because of his crime. I'll bet in the future he would be mighty careful."

In cases where intoxication was involved Chenu favors the stiff sentence that is imposed; but he thinks in first offenses, or in the ordinary cases, his suggestion will do more than a short jail sentence.

Another thing, Chenu says the courts should not permit violators to jump their bail, but should bring them into court upon bench warrant.

Autos Now in Use

According to the latest figures, approximately 10,400,000 passenger automobiles and motor trucks are in operation in the United States. England has a total of 462,000 motor vehicles; France, 235,000 cars; Germany, 91,000; Australia, 85,000, and Italy, 50,000.

CAR SHIPMENTS SET NEW MARK

During Past Month Record Is Broken, According to Railroad Figures

DETROIT., Oct. 14—Shipments of automobiles from Detroit last month broke all records. Up to the end of August 55,045 carloads of autos had been loaded for shipment from Detroit stations of the Michigan Central railway, according to figures issued by E. D. Bronner, vice president.

During the first eight months of 1921 shipments reached a total of only 25,724 carloads. August this year was the high month of 1922, with loadings of 8557 carloads. During each of the preceding seven months more than 7000 carloads were shipped. The local record was also equalled by the entire nation's figures, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce of New York, which reports that a total of 272,640 cars and trucks were manufactured by all the companies in the industry during August. The increase over August last year is 53 per cent. This is by far the heaviest August output on record and is a close second to record production for any one month (289,120) established last June.

KNOW YOUR CAR; GET ITS SECRETS

Western Auto Supply Sales Manager in Glendale Tells of Tool Kits

The man who really gets the most pleasure out of his automobile is the chap who, after tinkering with it, making his own repairs and installing his own accessories, can really say that the old boat has a distinct personality. He is the fellow you see every day who brags about the mileage he gets to the gallon; the absence of vibration; the pickup and pep his boat has and other various and sundry things that a man can talk about if he really knows his car.

And it's much easier to know the innermost secrets of an automobile's internal workings than it was in the past. Complete encyclopedias on autos and their ailments are on sale at nearly every good accessory store and at many book stores.

The ones in the libraries seem to have been perused with care by dozens of prospective back yard mechanics, and occasionally you'll see some chap parked along the side of the road looking over the old "Dyke" to find out why his motor decided not to move.

Can't Carry Them All

Of course it would be out of the question for a motorist to try and carry all the different tools that are now on the market and recommended as cures for certain motoring problems. There are special socket wrenches, combination wrenches, trouble lamps, ratchet wrenches for use on the transmission, tire tools and piston ring compressors. Then you can take your pick of valve grinding outfits, jacks of both gear and ratchet types, pliers of a dozen or more types and kinds, wheel pullers and many other tools too numerous to mention.

"The motorist could not, even if he wished, find room for all the tools he could use," said the Glendale sales manager for the Western Auto Supply company.

"A lot of the tools now made for the man who repairs his own car—and his number is legion now-a-days were made primarilly for garage use. There are many different assortments of tools now put on the market in the form of tool kits that give about as fine an assortment of tools for roadside repairs as any motorist could want. One of the most popular sets contains thirty tools as well as repair materials such as cotter pins, copper wire, etc."

Employment Increase Shown by Factories

Comparing the increase and decrease of employment of twelve of the leading industries of the country, the Bureau of Labor statistics in a recent report shows that eight showed increases and four decreases in June as compared with June of a year ago.

The automotive industry shows an increase of 21.2 per cent in June, 1922, as compared with June, 1921. By way of comparison, Willys-Overland shows an increase of 34 per cent in June, 1922, as compared with June a year ago.

Locate Small Leaks

The best method of locating leaks in an inner tube when there is no water handy, is to hold the tube close to the dust of the road, compressing the air in the other part. Tire chalk or even cigar ashes have been used for the purpose.

REVENUE OFFICIAL ISSUES STATEMENT

Tells Automobile Men Just Kow They Come Under Tax Regards Repairs

In an effort to correct a general misunderstanding that exists among automobile men regarding the application of the tax imposed by the Revenue Acts of 1918 and 1921 to automobile parts used in connection with repair work, Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell has announced that he had formulated the following rules for the convenience of those who are affected by the tax:

With respect to work other than top and body work—A person who manufactures for sale separately parts and accessories, and is also engaged in the repair business, shall be held to be a manufacturer with respect to all such parts or accessories made and sold by him, whether used in repair work or not.

A person who does not manufacture any parts or accessories for sale separately, but is engaged in doing a strictly repair business and makes only occasionally a part needed for an immediate repair job performed by him, is not a manufacturer, and is not required to pay any tax with respect to such parts or accessories.

With respect to top and body work—A person engaged in top and body work who makes complete new tops, or complete bodies with or without tops, is held to be a manufacturer of such articles and the sale thereof subject to tax, even though it may be in connection with an immediate repair job.

Called Manufacturer

A person who makes from raw material such articles as side curtains, detachable slip covers, detachable floor covering, etc., is held to be a manufacturer and subject to tax with respect to the sale of such articles, even though sold in connection with a repair job.

No tax shall be levied with respect to other articles, such as upholstering, fenders, doors, etc., built for an immediate repair job, slip and seat coverings, radiator and hood covers, etc., only such of these articles as may be readily attached by the average garage man or individual user are subject to tax. For example, side curtains, radiator cover, detachable slip covers, and carpeting are taxable, while upholstering work and permanently attached seat and floor coverings are not taxable. Neither are new doors or fenders made up from raw materials for immediate repair jobs subject to tax.

No tax attaches with respect to top covering work unless it involves the building of a complete new top or one or more side curtains. Side curtains and complete new tops are subject to tax, even though made up from raw materials for immediate repairs. Back curtains, heretofore held taxable, are exempt from tax under this ruling, unless they are made up and kept in stock for sale separately or unless installed as a prt of complete new top.

Government Has Big Motor Tourist Camp

The United States government maintains a motor camp of three acres for tourists, losated one mile from the business center of Washington, D. C. This is listed as having unlimited accommodations for cars and persons, and furnishes a general store, firewood, water, showers, sewerage, police protection and a concrete runway for washing cars.

Care for Your Tires and Avert Blowouts

Several flagrant tire abuses, which are becoming common result in blowouts prematurely, can be avoided by proper care. Among these are overloading, under-inflation, overspeeding, misalignment of wheels, driving in car tracks and ruts, neglected cuts and the improper use of anti-skid devices.

MOTOR INDUSTRY NOW TAKES LEAD

Outstrips Steel and Iron and Employes Number Close to Two Million

Analysis of information secured through government sources discloses that the automobile industry is the largest manufacturing enterprise in the world.

Thirty years ago, Bryce in his classic treatise on the American Commonwealth referred to America's great railway system as the means of communication that held this country together and rendered it one for all social, political and commercial purposes.

During the past decade," says the October issue of the Automobile Trade Journal, "another great advance in inter-communication has been made. The automobile marks the most successful attempt to provide 'individual transportation' since the first cave-man harnessed the progenitor of the modern horse and thereby supplied himself with a means of travel afield."

The tremendous growth of the automobile industry in recent years is due solely to the fact that it has supplied a public need.

Greater Than Steel and Iron

The value of the 1922 automotive output will be approximately as follows:

|---|---|
| Automobiles | $1,350,000,000 |
| Tires | 675,000,000 |
| Replacement Parts | 550,000,000 |
| Accessories | 150,000,000 |
| Total | $2,725,000,000 |

This total is 33 per cent greater than the value of the output in the second largest industry, the refining of petroleum (65 per cent of which is used by automobiles), 65 per cent greater than the value of the iron and steel output, and more than twice the value of all cotton goods produced in the textile mills of the country.

Affects Many Basic Industries

The automobile business is the most essential of our manufacturing industries, because it directly affects a greater number of what might be termed "basic" industries, than does any other manufacturing enterprise.

Annual imports of crude rubber into the United States are now 600,000,000 pounds per annum. Of this total, 81 per cent, or 490,000,000 pounds, will be required this year for automobile tires.

Production of plate glass this year should total about 68,000,000 square feet. Nearly one-third of this, or 21,500,000 square feet, will be required for automobiles.

This year 5,400,000,000 gallons of gasoline will be produced. About 4,320,000,000 gallons, or 80 per cent of this total, will be used in automobiles.

While over 850,000,000 gallons of lubricating oil will be refined in 1922, only 575,000,000 gallons will be required for domestic consumption. About 230,000,000 gallons, or over 40 per cent, of of domestic consumption will be needed for the operation of automobiles.

About 75,000 bales of Egyptian-type long staple cotton will be grown in the United States this year while 400,000 bales will be imported from Egypt. About 38 per cent of this total, or 180,000 bales, will be used in the manufacture of automobile tires.

Any weakness in the market for automotive products will be immediately reflected in the business of all of those industries which depend wholly or in part on the automobile business for a market.

Employ 1,662,200 Wage Earners

With its various subsidiary lines, the automobile business influences the industrial labor market to a more pronounced extent than does any other great industry.

There are 727,000 wage earners, in production, sales and service work, whose income is derived directly from the industry.

In addition to these there are 935,000 other wage earners, who derive their income indirectly from the automobile business. These are drivers and chauffeurs and workers in industries supplying raw materials to manufacturers of automotive products. Figures for workers in these industries were obtained by multiplying total workers in each of these industries by the percentage of the total output needed for automotive products.

Directly and indirectly the automobile industry influences the employment of 1,662,000 wage earners.

There are approximately 12,750,000 wage earners supported from manufacturing industries or engaged in transportation. Of these, 13 per cent are dependent upon the automobile business.

More Passengers Than Railroads

The automobile is, today, the leading passenger transportation agency in the United States.

There are today 55,250 railroad passenger coaches in use, having a seating capacity of 2,270,000 passengers. The seating capacity of 9,500,000 automobiles now in use is 47,000,000.

Based on records for the past five years, there should be 47,000,000,000 passenger miles to the credit of rail facilities in 1922. The average number of passengers per automobile is two, and the average annual mileage is 6000. Hence the automobile must be credited with 114,000,000,000 passenger miles this year.

The automobile business is the most stable of the great industrial enterprises, because it has been the first to return to normal. The number of automobiles and trucks that will be manufactured this year will be slightly in excess of 2,000,000.

MOTOR CAR LIFE IS UP TO DRIVER

Original Quality Counts, Too, Word on Hupmobile From Local Man

"The life of a motor car depends upon two things—the original quality and the driver.

"The day of perfection may never be reached in mechanical construction, but we are enjoying mechanism in the modern motor car which so nearly approaches this condition that the driver of today should consider himself most fortunate.

"It is possible to buy cars now which will take you there and bring you back with the maximum of ease and comfort," says Lanier Bartlett, of Bartlett & French, local Hupmobile agency, 107 East Colorado street.

That the Hupmobile reputation is carefully guarded is evidenced by the following which is called to the attention of every Hupmobile dealer as well as prospective purchasers.

"Hupmobile reputation is a very real and a very vital thing. So real and vital in fact that it is hard to express in words. Its influence is felt in the minds of many more people than have ever driven Hupmobiles. Its effects are found full-grown where least expected. Our competitors are quite as conscious of it as we ourselves are.

"If words could express it, they would be such words as honesty—thoroughness — dependability. To uphold this reputation, and to make it mean more to more people everywhere, is no small task. Yet this is the commission we have placed, with complete success, on this series "R" Hupmobile."

Guard Your Packages When Parking Motor

When an automobile is parked at night no one but the owner is responsible for materials left in it, especially if it is an open car. Any contents that might be easily stolen should be removed. This should be done even if the car is to be left but for a few minutes, for it does not take long for a crook to get away with valuables left in an automobile. If the car is enclosed and the doors have reliable locks on them these should be carefully locked whenever the car is parked.

REPAIR MAN CAN HOLD YOUR AUTO

liable for the repairs, not by reason of any relation that he might have to the automobile, but by reason of his contracting with the repair man.

It is, therefore, always well to take particular care that anyone other than the owner is properly authorized to order the repairs made. It may be taken from this that in a case such as the one above cited the repair man's lien would not attach. This is not correct, as, even though an owner of a machine in no wise authorized or consented to repairs being made, the lien would attach to the property itself and it not dependent upon liability of the owner.

A leaky seam in a gasoline tank can be temporary repaired by painting the joints with common shellac.

OVERLAND USED TO BLAZE TRAIL

Pathfinders Use Touring Car for Trip Into Wild Canadian Country

The experiences of C. W. Niemeyer and Frank Silverthorne, pilots of the Edmonton Automobile club's Overland pathfinding car, in blazing a trail through the Canadian wilds between Edmonton and Vancouver, would furnish the scenario for a five-reel thundering thriller, according to George T. Smith, Glendale dealer of Willys-Knight and Overland cars.

"Starting from Edmonton with an Overland stock touring car and an outfit of picks, shovels, axes and other tool equipment, a number of twelve-foot, ten-inch planks, spare parts, extra tires, fifty gallons of gasoline, six quarts of oil and personal luggage, the total weight of which was 1800 pounds, these two plucky adventurers traversed one of the wildest and most remote regions of western Canada and won the distinction of being the first to ever make the trip in an automobile without crossing the American line.

"Undaunted by almost unheard of handicaps which were encountered everywhere in the shape of impossible trails, rock slides, burned and washed out bridges, furious rain and windstorms and, on several occasions, even fights with grizzly bears and other beasts that inhabit these wild mountain regions, they covered the entire distance of 1018 miles in record time and averaged 24.8 miles per gallon of gas—an achievement which is probably unparalleled in automobile history."

STUDEBAKER CAR FACTS OUTLINED

Prospective Purchaser Is Always Interested in the Company's History

Prospective purchasers of Studebaker cars are always interested in facts concerning the organization behind the car, according to D. H. Packer of the Packer Auto company, 245 South Brand boulevard.

So that motorists might better understand how the Studebaker is produced, the factory published the following facts:

"Established in 1852. Present capital investment, $80,000,000.

"Plants in South Bend, Indiana; Detroit, Michigan; Walkerville, Canada. Second largest in the world.

"Plants cover 225 acres; buildings contain 5,987,000 square feet of active floor space; and investment amounts to $38,000,000.

"Inventories of raw materials, work in progress, and finished goods, amount to $20,000,000.

"Research and experimental laboratories, unexcelled in the industry, employing 100 skilled men.

"Twelve thousand five hundred machines used in 500 manufacturing departments.

"Average number of employes, 16,000.

"One thousand one hundred and twenty mechanical operations on the three models of Studebaker cars are accurate to one-thousandth (.001) of an inch; 360 to one-half thousandth (.0005) of an inch.

"Six hundred and eighty inspectors employed in the plants; 9,500 inspections during manufacturing before cars are passed for delivery. In addition, 500,000 laboratory tests are made annually.

"One hundred and fifty tons of castings made in Studebaker foundries daily; 85,000 tons of steel used by Studebaker annually.

"Seven million gallons of fuel oil used annually in heat treating and in drop forge furnaces; 85,000,000 cubic feet of gas used annually.

"Over 550,000 Studebaker cars produced and sold—valued at $700,000,000.

"Studebaker cars are sold in all civilized countries and the tradename "Studebaker" is a household word."

Don't Strain Gear

Never attempt to turn the front wheels by force when the car is stationary. This throws an excessive strain on all parts of the steering mechanism. Let in the clutch slowly and swing the wheel the moment the car starts to move. The wheels can be thrown all the way around while the car moves about a foot, and at the same time the entire steering gear is relieved of any strain.

NEW CHEVROLETS ON WAY TO CITY

H. W. Smith Leaves for Oakland to Bring Back Two 1923 Models

H. W. Smith, manager for C. L. Smith, local Chevrolet dealer, left last night for Oakland to bring back to Glendale two of the new 1923 Chevrolet models.

Mrs. Smith is also making the trip, and, although driving a Chevrolet but a few weeks, she does not expect to experience any difficulty in bringing back one of the cars.

They will return to Glendale late Tuesday and the new models will be on display Wednesday night, it is announced.

Although new equipment has been added to the 1923 model, prices remain the same, according to Mr. Smith.

Some of the distinctive features of the 1923 Chevrolet follow: Streamline body design with high hood; vacuum feed and near gasoline tank on all models; drum type head lamps with legal lenses. Curtains open with doors of open models. Closed models have plate glass Ternstedt regulated windows, straight side cord tires, sun visor, windshield wiper and dash light. The Sedanette is equipped with auto trunk on rear.

FORD AGENCY IN ANNUAL OUTING

Employes of the Jesse E. Smith Company Hold Affair at Park

About forty officers and employes of the Jesse E. Smith company, local Ford dealers, together with their families, enjoyed the firm's annual picnic at Griffith Park last Sunday.

The day was marked by numerous hotly contested athletic events, the chief interest centering around the morning and afternoon ball games which kept the crowd excited for some time.

Races of various kinds for men and women also occupied part of the day.

A bountiful picnic dinner was spread under the oaks at noon and the late afternoon was given over to music by an improvised orchestra and vocal selections by the employes.

A SAFE PLACE TO BUY A USED CAR

NEW MAXWELL IS WINNING PRAISE

Experience No Trouble in Trips Across Continent, Says Local Dealer

"It is of unusual interest to note the large number of Maxwell cars that have come across the Continent recently and it is also interesting to read the reports from those who have purchased Maxwell cars and driven them east," says Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company, Maxwell dealers, 124 West Colorado street.

These owners invariably report that the new Maxwell is unusually repair proof and many of these cars have not had even a puncture to give them any worry.

The tremendous inroads it is making in public favor are directly due to its superior performance. That the new Maxwell is standing up and giving most unusual service has been proven to even the most skeptical.

"It is this exceptional performance, combined with its unusual beauty of design and body lines, that has made the new Maxwell car the most talked of, of any motor car on the market today," said Mr. Clark.

STACKS OF RENT RECEIPTS USELESS

Hard Earned Money Unwisely Spent, No Real Asset, Says B. McGinnis

Burton McGinnis, local manager of the Southern California Metropolitan Loan association, regarding "Own Your Own Home," says:

"A stack of rent receipts represent hard-earned money unwisely spent—it's gone and leaves behind no tangible asset or income. Your rent money applied toward the purchase of a home under the building and loan association plan pays for it in a few years and gives you a substantial asset and a more desirable place in which to live.

"When you own your own home there is an incentive to make improvements which not only adds to the value of your own property but also improves the community. It pays to own your home—it pays in dollars and cents—it pays in satisfaction and contentment—it pays considered from every standpoint.

"There is a sentiment attached to home ownership which creates civic pride, encourages thrift and inspires a keener interest in community life. Home ownership is a mark of stability and good citizenship."

RACES WITH LAW ONCE TOO OFTEN

Cargo of Booze Seized and Car Sold for $28.50; On Chain Gang Now

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 14.—Battered relic of many successful races with the law, a dilapidated especially geared Ford car locally famous as the "Dixie Corn Flyer," has at last come into lawful hands.

The car has been sold by Sheriff Jackson for $28.50 to Ewell Haynes. It was seized by the officers some time ago when after many unsuccessful attempts to overhaul it on the broad highways they worked the German "pincer" system on it and hemmed it in at Newton's bridge.

After vain attempts to ram the car through the surrounding cordon of officers, Lee Kenney, its owner, surrendered it loaded with whiskey and himself. He went to the chain gang and the car to the auction block, much battered from bein grammed into the bridge when the driver found himself surrounded, with no avenue of escape.

According to officials the car got its name from the number of times it was able to outrun the officers and escape with its cargoes of booze.

Nebraskans Not to Burn Up Their Corn

LINCOLN, Neb.—Even if the grain bears succeed in chopping two or more cents off the price of corn, Nebraska farmers will continue to burn coal. The only corn that will go into fuel bins this year will be damaged goods, unfit for consumption as human or livestock food.

Nebraska had an epidemic of corn burning last year and found it didn't pay, even with coal prices 10 to 20 per cent higher than they had ever been in this state.

To determine the relative merits of corn as a fuel in comparison with coal a series of experiments have just been completed at the University of Nebraska. The tests disclosed that it takes fifty bushels of corn on the cob or sixty-three bushels of shelled corn to produce as many heat units as one ton of bituminous coal. At present prices for corn in the crib, the farmer who burned his grain would be paying at the rate of $44 a ton for fuel.

THESE RULES AID TO AUTO TRAFFIC

List of Dont's Will Assist in Relieving Congestion on Roads Sundays

Traffic congestion on Sunday could be avoided if motorists would only follow certain rules of the road, according to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

A survey of recent tremendous traffic accumulation was completed by the Auto club, and a set of road rules has been issued by the organization's touring bureau for the guidance of the auto owners of Southern California.

Besides studying the maps of this locality, so that the shortest route from the beaches to the home garage may be taken, and so that all traffic will not converge on Wilshire boulevard and Washington boulevard, Los Angeles, the club suggests that the following "Dont's" be studied carefully:

Here They Are

Don't fail to keep in line—the line is probably several miles long and you will increase congestion and gain no time by trying to catch the leader of the procession.

Don't fail to signal properly to the driver behind your intention to stop or turn.

Don't drive in a slow moving line of travel in high gear—speed is impossible and for safety purposes use low or second gears.

Don't kill your motor in slow moving traffic.

Don't fail to stay a reasonably safe distance behind the car ahead.

Don't fail to have your brakes in working order.

Don't fail to pull entirely off the road to change tires—or "fix" the carburetor.

Don't fail to park entirely off the boulevard when stopping to patronize the ranchers or roadside fruit stores.

Don't stop on the road to carry on a conversation with a friend whom you meet—invite him to your parlor and keep moving.

Wait for Opening

Don't, upon entering a congested boulevard from a side street or a shady point along the boulevard where you have stopped to lunch or rest, push your way into the line of traffic—wait a few moments until a good and safe opening presents itself.

Don't be a car track driver, or a road hog. If you desire to travel leisurely pull over to the right as far as possible and let the traffic go by. Truck drivers, please heed.

Don't push yourself into every chance opening at unguarded intersections.

Don't turn around in the middle of the blocks.

Don't forget that you can save time by going one block further instead of trying to make a left turn at a badly jammed intersection.

Don't discharge or take on passengers in the middle of the street or road.

Don't park in double line of traffic downtown—and go shopping—or wait for someone.

Don't follow the driver who pulls out of line, starting a double line of traffic.

INCREASING WORK IN LOCAL OFFICE

Charlton & Brainard Secure Another Draftsman for Growing Business

There is no more convincing evidence of the "Better Homes" movement in Glendale than the increasing activity under way in the architectural office of Charlton & Brainard at 111 East Broadway. Such an increase have they experienced that they have found it necessary to add another draftsman to their office force and work nights to keep up with the new work coming in.

The have recently completed plans for the following new homes now being built or soon to be built in Glendale: An 8-room residence for Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kranz, under construction at the corner of Louise and Mountain streets; a 5-room residence for Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes, 1323 East Wilson avenue; a 6-room one and a half story Spanish residence soon to be built on Central avenue near Mountain street.

Plans will soon be completed for a four-flat building; a double bungalow and a 5-room bungalow. Building permits for all will be taken out during the month of October with a total cost of near $41,000.

Philadelphia Drivers Scrub License Plates

Seventy-nine motorists in Philadelphia, Pa., were recently forced to alight from their cars, accept scrubbing brushes from a stern policeman, and clean their dirty automobile license tags. Among the group were a number of prominent society folks. It was part of a campaign to enforce the state traffic regulation that the number plates shall be visible fifty feet away.

Keep Radiator Clean

The radiator must be kept free from oil, otherwise the outside passages will quickly accumulate dust which will cut off the free flow of air and reduce the radiating surfaces. The same effect comes when the front of the radiator is too thickly smeared with ink.

BEST SANITATION REAL NECESSITY

P. J. Sheehy, Manager for Glendale Plumbing Co., Urges Health Move

P. J. Sheehy, manager of the Glendale Plumbing company, 134 South Orange street, made a statement recently that he was amazed at the great amount of indifference that people seem to have pertaining to good and healthful sanitation in their homes.

"You will find people will go to a lot of expense in 'dolling up' their houses and making the outside look nice," he remarked. "They pay special attention to the shade of the wallpaper and the angle at which the sun strikes the different windows and all that sort of thing. But when it comes to one of the most vital things in a home—the matter of up-to-date plumbing—in numerous cases the first statement you get from them is: "We want the cheapest possible plumbing that we can get."

The proper installation of plumbing is very essential in the opinion of Mr. Sheehy. He considers the unseen portion of the plumbing even more important than the visible fixtures.

"Bad plumbing emits sewer gas into a home," he asserted. "When you have sewage gas, whether it be in large or small quantities, it impregnates the air with impurities. You are only kidding yourself when you think you are breathing fresh air."

ADVERTISING AIDS IN REALTY SALES

J. E. Barney, Marvin Smith Handle $250,000 Properties in Few Months

The splendid record of handling $250,000 worth of realty deals in the last three and a half months has been made by J. E. Barney and Marvin Smith of the J. E. Barney Realty company at 131 North Brand boulevard.

"Most of our sales have been in houses," says Mr. Barney, "and we are having calls every day for houses at right prices and in good locations. We are looking forward to more success this fall and winter. Why? Because Glendale is the best, cleanest and fastest growing city in the United States, bar none. We have proven that it pays to advertise, so watch our advertisements and make your dollars have more cents and buy a home in Glendale."

DELIVERY WAGON DRIVERS ACCUSED

Fail to Obey Traffic Laws and Menace Life Is Complaint to Club

Pink-cheeked delivery boys and drivers of commercial vehicles throughout southern and central California are calling down upon themselves a storm of criticism from motorists for careless driving, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

There is a growing sentiment locally against the uncontrolled actions of delivery boys who are either ignorant of traffic laws, or in their youthful exuberance fail to obey even the laws that they know about.

In fact, it is stated by Auto club authorities, there is a movement now on foot to secure a control of these reckless youths by state-wide action of some sort. In some localities it is believed that the age limit of the driver of a delivery wagon should be at least twenty-one years of age before he secures a driving license.

Fail to Obey Laws

Many motorists complain to the club that the drivers of delivery wagons fail to obey the speed laws, often cut-in in front of passenger vehicles with reckless abandon and cut corners without giving a signal, which is a double offense.

In Los Angeles the question has been presented to the city council by the board of public utilities seeking to secure some hold on the wild boys who launch their vehicles upon the city streets with all the energy of human catapults. The board wishes to secure control of the delivery wagon drivers so as to place an age limit upon them, if possible.

Other cities throughout Southern California are considering similar action, with a view to arousing state-wide sentiment in the matter and thus secure legislative action, which it is declared, would hit at the root of the matter.

A new traffic device is operated in New York City, in the form of a standard seven feet six inches in height, which displays red or green lights at night. In the top of the lamp is placed a bell which automatically rings when the lamp starts to revolve, thus giving an audible signal to traffic every time it is to stop or go.

Benefit In Roads

As the result of an investigation it has been found that the value of good roads has greatly benefited Sunday schools and churches in rural communities. In certain localities in the United States enterprising pastors have procured busses and other motor vehicles to transport children to the religious services.

To Stop Squeaks

Before washing the car, a mixture of kerosene and lubricating oil should be forced between the body crevices with a squirt gun, or allowed to seep in from the application of a brush. This will overcome body squeaks provided proper attention is given to the tightening of all body bolts.

OLDSMOBILE HAS PRICE REDUCTION

Didn't Think They Could Do It, Declares Local Agent, J. C. Pollock

"The Olds Motor Works has long promised us a car that we could sell for less than $1000. Frankly, we didn't think they could do it," declares J. C. Pollock of J. C. Pollock & Co., Oldsmobile agency, 208-210 West Broadway.

"However, we have been notified that now the powerful roomy, economical and beautiful model 43-A (four-cylinder touring) will retail at $975, f. o. b. factory. And prices on all other body types have been proportionately reduced. There will be no lowering of quality—the same high standard being maintained.

"Think of it—quality 'four' at $975! And an 'eight' at $1375! Never, in the long history of Oldsmobiles, has the slogan that Oldsmobile owners have adopted been more true—'The Most Car for the Money.'"

VIRGINIAN TIRES RECEIVE PRAISE

A. C. Fangman Tells of Many Satisfied Customers Who Tell Good Service

"When a motorist purchases Virginian tires he is certain to become a satisfied customer," declares A. C. Fangman of the Cut Rate Tire Store, 212 West Broadway, Glendale.

Many times people purchase tires at the local store and make trips through the desert or over mountain roads, and drop a card to Mr. Fangman just to tell him how good the tires have proved themselves. On the other hand, people who have purchased the same make of tire in the east frequently drop in at the Glendale store to speak a good word for the tire and tell of some unusual service, it is reported.

Move English Hall to San Francisco

LONDON.—Norland Hall, an ancient homestead, near Halifax, England, is being dismantled and perpared for removal to San Francisco, where it will be re-erected.

The stones and timber comprising the hall are being packed into crates, and every stone and piece of wood is being numbered, so that the whole building will be re-erected exactly as it stood in England.

Universal Joints

The universal joints should be cleaned thoroughly several times during the year. Then inject a small quantity of high quality steam cylinder oil, and rotate the joints for several minutes to permit the oil to work its way into the bearing surfaces.

Don't Slam Doors

Slamming of doors on a car is a practice which should be avoided at all times. Persistent slamming racks the hinges and loosens the doors until they become wobbly and hang loosely.

This Blind Man Is Able to See Well

Motorists in and around Glendale have been attracted by an automobile bearing the sign, "Another Blind Man," but many of them did not know that they were reading a description of the latest Glendale merchant, A. C. Sumner, proprietor of the Broadway Shade shop at 200 West Broadway.

While claiming to be a blind man, Mr. Sumner is able to see the best in shades and he has a fine stock of window shades and window rods from which the householder may make a choice.

Starting the Motor

Where both battery and magneto ignition systems are included in a car, the battery system should be switched on for starting the motor. With this system the current is always available, while with the magneto system the current must be generated by the magneto as the motor is gradually turned over.

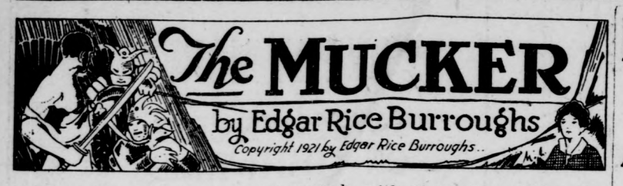
Fact Fiction Magazine and Feature Page Fun Fancies



When she had recovered her equanimity she hastened to the head of the cabin companionway and called aloud for help. Instantly Skipper Simms and First Officer Ward rushed on deck, each carrying a revolver in readiness for the conflict with their crew that these two worthies were always expecting.

Barbara pointed out the still form of Theriere, quickly explaining what had occurred.

"It was the fellow Byrne who did it," she said. "He has gone into the forecastle now, and he has a revolver that he took from Mr. Theriere after he had fallen."

Several of the crew had now congregated about the prostrate officer.

"Here you," cried Skipper Simms to a couple of them; "you take Mr. Theriere below to his cabin, an' throw cold water in his face. Mr. Ward, get some brandy from my locker, an' try an' bring him to. The rest of you arm yourselves with crowbars and axes, an' see that that son of a sea cook don't get out on deck alive. Hold him there 'til I get a couple of guns. Then we'll get him, damn him!"

Skipper Simms hastened below while two of the men were carrying Theriere to his cabin and Mr. Ward was fetching the brandy. A moment later Barbara Harding saw the skipper return to the upper deck with a rifle and two revolvers. The sailors whom he had detailed to keep Byrne below were gathered about the hatchway leading to the forecastle. Some of them were exchanging profane and pleasant badinage with the prisoner.

"Yeh better come up an' get killed easy-like," one called down to the mucker. "We're apt to muss yeh all up down there in the dark with these axes and crowbars, an' then wen we send yeh home per pore maw won't know her little boy at all."

Yeh come on down here, an' try mussin' me up," yelled back Billy Byrne. "I can lick de whole gang wit one han' tied behin' me—see?"

"De skipper's gorn to get his barkers, Billy," cried Bony Sawyer. "Yeh better come up an' stan' trial if he gives yeh the chanct."

"Stan' nothin'," sneered Billy. "Swell chanct I'd have wit him an' Squint Eye holdin' court over me. Not on yer life, Bony. I'm here, an' here I stays till I croaks, but yeh better believe me, I'm goin' to croak a few before I goes, so if any of you ginks are me frien's yeh better keep outen here so's yeh won't get hurted. An' annudder ting I'm goin' to do before I cashes in—I'm goin' to put a few of dem ginks in de cabin wise to where dey stand wit one annuder. If I don't start someting before I goes me name's not Billy Byrne."

At this juncture Skipper Simms appeared with the three weapons he had gone to his cabin to fetch. He handed one to Bony Sawyer, another to Red Sanders and a third to a man by the name of Wilson.

"Now, my men," said Skipper Simms, "we will go below and bring Byrne up. Bring him alive if you can—but bring him."

No one made a move to enter the forecastle.

"Go on now, move quickly," commanded Skipper Simms sharply.

"Thought he said 'we,'" remarked one of the sailors.

Skipper Simms, livid with rage, turned to search out the offender from the several men behind him.

"Who was that?" he roared. "Show me the blitherin' swab. Jes' show him to me, I tell you, an' I'll learn him. "Now you," he yelled at the top of his voice, turning again to the men he had ordered into the forecastle after Billy Byrne, "you cowardly landlubbers you, get below there quick afore I kick you below."

Still no one moved to obey him. From white he went to red, and then back to white again. He fairly frothed at the mouth as he jumped up and down, cursing the men, and threatening. But all to no avail. They would not go.

"Why, Skipper," spoke up Bony Sawyer, "it's sure death for any man as goes below there. It's easier, an' safer, to starve him out."

"Starve nothin," shrieked Skipper Simms. "Do you reckon I'm a-goin' to sit quiet here for a week an' let any blanked wharf rat own that there fo'c's'le just because I got a lot o' white-livered cowards aboard? No sir! You're a-goin' down after that would-be bad man an' fetch him up dead or alive," and with that he started menacingly toward the three who stood near the hatch, holding their firearms safely out of range of Billy Byrne below.

What would have happened had Skipper Simms completed the threatening maneuver he had undertaken can never be known, for at this moment Theriere pushed his way through the circle of men who were interested spectators of the impending tragedy.

RUNNING FACTORY IN SOVIET RUSSIA IS MAN-SIZED WORK

All Sorts of Trouble Faces Heads of Plants and Industry Is Seriously Hampered

MOSCOW.—"The troubles of a factory manager in Russia—it's an awful life," grinned a young communist trained in American industry and now in charge of the Amo automobile factory, one of the largest auto factories in Russia.

He was smiling as he said it, and was evidently enjoying the fight against heavy odds; but there was a look of weary responsibility in his eyes that contradicted his youth. Like thousands of "responsible workers" in Russia, he is trying to rebuild a great industry on a shoestring, absolutely without capital and without prospects of getting any. He keeps on plugging ahead and accomplishing miracles.

"I'm between the government on the one hand and the workers on the other. Mine is a government plant. When I go down to the supreme council of national economy for the money I need it is easy for them to explain to me why I have to wait for a week. I'm just one man; I can't make such a lot of fuss. They can explain it to me all right, but how am I to explain to a thousand workmen who come clamoring for their pay.

Arbitrary Orders

"Then next day comes an order from somewhere high up: "Repair such and such autos at once on your personal responsibility as manager.' It's an order, you understand, like a military order. Those autos have to be ready, but how does one drive workers who want their pay? And ten of the men in an essential department come to tell me they are taking a holiday to get in the harvest. What can I do about it? There's a government decree that no one shall interfere with getting in the harvest.

"Oh, yes," he smiled, "it's an awful life! But we're going ahead. We're really going ahead."

The Amo plant is an enormous stretch of ground on the edge of Moscow, with buildings which have cost already some ten to twelve million dollars and are not yet completed. They were started during the war to make autos on war contracts, but the revolution came before they were finished, and the owners fled. Here are fine machines from America which have never turned out the parts they are intended to make. There is a garden city laid out for six thousand workers, of which only a few houses have yet been built.

Needs $4,000,000

It would take four million dollars to finish that plant and start operations, and this young communist has been given the task without the money. The only capital he has consists of large quantities of stores—copper wire, ball bearings—nothing complete, but many of one thing and few of another. He is privileged to trade these things when he runs short of funds. He also has a "cemetery of ruined trucks," which he is given for repairing.

A certain American firm made thousands of three-ton trucks for Russia during the war; it was the only firm, in fact, which could handle orders in thousand lots. But as soon as those trucks struck Russian road conditions a fundamental engine weakness developed and they all went to pieces soon. They lie all over Russia; 500 have already been collected in the yards of this plant.

The designing laboratory of the Amo, after months of experiment, designed an engine to fit those trucks, with harder metal than that used by America and with a few other changes. They are now making this engine and equipping the trucks and selling them—a product much better than when it first came across the seas.

Trucks Supply Funds

From that graveyard of ruined trucks comes the capital that is building the factory. A great office building is going up, bit by bit. A tool-making room is operating, creating the tools which a year hence may make automobiles. All this heavy overhead, which ought to be borne by capital invested, is being dug, ruble by ruble, from the truck-repairing and auto-repairing department of the plant.

Some day they'll have an auto plant, a fine big one, built out of the life energy and youthful will of this young manager. "But it is so wasteful," he groaned. Our foundry is only heated once a week for a couple of hours; that makes everything we can use for a week. Think of the cost of heating for that short time of use! We have machines that would cut the cost of production in half if we had a big enough order to pay us to run these highly specialized machines.

Needs Big Order

"A big order—a big order," he groaned, "with some advance capital—or even the advance capital without the order—so that we could run somewhere near capacity and make cars cheap and carry our customers a little while till they made money to pay us back. We need quantity production. But all of us are up against the complete lack of working capital."

"Can't you find some big capitalist to go into the business?" I asked.

But instantly his nation-wide view—from which all these young communists look—asserted itself: "If capital comes," he said, "it should not be first for my plant. Autos are secondary needs; tractors and railway transport are primary. Improving methods of getting out oil are also primary. These things must be done first to make available the major riches of Russia; only then can we afford capital for the making of autos adn trucks."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PAPER HAT

"Ting-a-ling-a-ling!" rang the phone in the hollow stump bungalow of Uncle Wiggily.

"If that is Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig," spoke Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, "please tell her I'll be right over to help her make that popcorn shortcake."

"I'll tell her," politely answered Uncle Wiggily, as he rose to answer the telephone, his pink nose going twinkle-inkle-ink, like a star on top of a Christmas tree.

"Ting-a-ling-a-ling!" rang the telephone again.

"Oh, I'm coming! I'm coming!" laughed the bunny. "Mrs. Twistytail must be in a hurry this morning," he said to Nurse Jane.

Uncle Wiggily lifted down the receiver and listened. Even from where she was putting on her bonnet in front of the glass, Nurse Jane could hear through a telephone, a lot of noise. Uncle Wiggily heard it also. In fact, there was so much noise he couldn't hear what was being said. In fact, there was shouting and laughing and talking and barking and whining.

"Wait a minute. Please wait a minute!" cried the bunny.

He held the receiver a little distance from his ear, as he didn't wish to be made deaf by the noise.

"What in the world is going on at Mrs. Twistytail's house?" asked Nurse Jane in surprise, for she could still hear some noise through the telephone though some distance from it. "Is the Woozie Wolf after the little pigs?" asked Nurse Jane.

"No, this isn't Mrs. Twistytail's house at all," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "It's Mrs. Bow Wow's, the lady dog, and she's trying to talk, and so are Jackie and Peetie, or else they're laughing and barking at the same time and there's a banging on tin pans and pails and I never heard such a racket in all my life!"

"What's it all about?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Please be quiet!" Uncle Wiggily shouted into the telephone. "Only one of you talk at the time, and then I can hear."

It was soon more quiet, and, after listening a moment or two,

"Forward—march!" cried the bunny gentleman.

Uncle Wiggily said to his muskrat lady housekeeper:

"It seems that Mrs. Bow Wow has to go out, and she doesn't want Jackie and Peetie to stay there alone for fear they'll cut up and get into mischief. So she is telephoning to ask me to come over, and Jackie and Peetie broke in on her and shouted to tell me they want to play some special kind of game. I guess I'll have to go over."

"I suppose so," sighed Nurse Jane. And when Uncle Wiggily reached the doggie house he found Jackie and Peetie eagerly waiting for him, while Mrs. Bow Wow had on her bonnet and shawl ready to go out to the store.

"It was very good of you to come over, Uncle Wiggily," she said.

"I'm glad to do it," spoke the bunny. "But what was it you doggie chaps tried to tell me over the telephone?" he asked. "You both talked at once and I couldn't hear you. What do you want to play?"

"Soldier! Soldier!" barked Jackie and Peetie, both together. "We want to play soldier like Sammie and Susie did, and we want to bang on tin pails and pans and—"

Uncle Wiggily held up one paw and waited for the doggies to become silent.

"If we play soldier we must play a silent game," said the bunny. "My rheumatism hurts today, and the only soldier game we can play will be to have a parade."

"That suits us!" barked Jackie and Peetie, as their mother went down town shopping.

"First we must make some paper soldier hats," said the bunny.

"Will you wear one?" asked Jackie.

"Oh, yes, I'll be in the parade, too," laughed Mr. Longears.

"Let's make Uncle Wiggily captain," proposed Peetie, "and he can march ahead of you and me, Jackie, wearing his paper hat."

"Yes," agreed Jackie.

So Uncle Wiggily made some paper hats with sharp points on top, as all paper soldier hats have. One hat was for Jackie, one for Peetie and one for Uncle Wiggily.

"Forward—march!" cried the bunny gentlemna as he placed himself at the head of the little parade.

Around and around the room marched the little doggie soldiers, and they were having lots of fun, and not making any more noise than they could help, when, all of a sudden, in through the door that Uncle Wiggly had forgotten to close came the Fuzzy Fox.

"I want ears!" howled the Fox.

"Halt!" suddenly cried Uncle Wiggily. Jackie and Peetie came to a sudden stop. "Off hats!" commanded Captain Uncle Wiggily. He took off his sharp pointed paper cap, and so did Jackie and Peetie.

"Advance, soldiers!" cried the rabbit. "Stick sharp hats in the ribs of the Fox! Forward!"

Holding the sharp pointed hats in front of them, like spears, Uncle Wiggily, Jackie and Peetie rushed at the Fox.

"Oh, my! None of that for me!" howled the Fox. "Oh, I don't want any sharp paper hats stuck in my ribs! Oh, wow!" And away he ran as fast as he could go.

"Ha! ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "It's a good thing we played soldiers. And now, forward march again!" And he marched Jackie and Peetie down the street to the lollypop store and bought them each an ice cream cone. And if the teaspoon doesn't try to swell up big, like a tablespoon, and spill all the sugar, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the tramp dog.

A LOADING INDUCTANCE

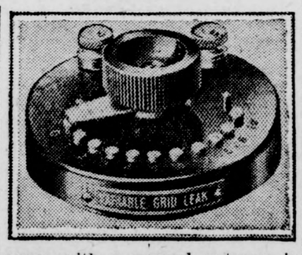
The advantages of a loading coil in the antenna are too well known to be enumerated here.

In the illustration will be found an inductance coil that is mounted within a molded bakelite base, and is adjusted by means of the eleven point switch. Switch points are brass nickel-plated with top surface accurately machined after assembly to assure smooth operation and low contact resistance.



Ten laps in geometric progression give exceptionally fine tuning on all wave lengths. The range with a normal antenna is about 3,500 meters.

CURRENT CONTROL AND RESISTANCE

The name rheostat is, in general, applied to a device as that described in the preceding article, but with a larger current carrying capacity and a smaller range. Its coils are usually open to the air and it may be continuously adjusted or by steps or, again, it may be fixed in value. Others are made to rotate and with the coils embedded in a hard insulating material.

The familiar group of grids beneath the floor of street cars is a good example of rheostats of a certain class. The individual units are not accurately measured and marked as they are in resistance boxes, previously described, as it is not usually necessary to know the values of the separate steps. A frequently used resister for large currents is made by immersing plates in a tank of a conducting liquid. Adjustments are made by varying the distance between the plates. For smaller ranges the carbon compression rheostat is much used in radio and laboratory work. In this type a number of carbon plates are brought into more or less intimate contact by variable screw pressure.

Resisters of single fixed values are convenient for many purposes. If they are carefully made and measured they are often called standard resistance coils. Such standards may be secured in range from 0.00001 ohm. to 100,000 ohms., and of any desired current carrying capacity and degree of precision.

Banks of incandescent lamps in various arrangements are often used as resisters. The resistance of such lamps is subject to large variations in value with changes in temperature. However, when operating under steady conditions, whether hot or cold, they are satisfactory for many purposes. Such a rheostat offers the advantage of being readily adjustable by turning the individual lamps off or on. They are generally used in laboratory work or to replace a burnt out rheostat.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

TOO MUCH TALK

"The talkative listen to no one for they are ever speaking. And the first evil that attends those who know not how to be silent is that they hear nothing."—Plutarch.

Do you talk too much.

An insulting question? Well, I don't blame you for being offended. I just asked Myself that question and Myself didn't like it at all. But then I suspect that one reason it made Myself touchy was that Myself had a sneaking, annoying suspicion that perhaps that might be one of its faults.

The older I grow the more I realize that there is no commoner fault than the habit of talking too much.

What do I mean by too much? Well, several things.

When You Ought to Be Working

For one thing, talking when you should be doing something else. How many people we know who waste time that way, and then have to leave things undone, or rush around to catch up with their tasks, and tire themselves out or do slipshod work as we always do when we have a sense of being behind schedule.

Again I mean saying things over and over again when you have said them once.

When You Have Nothing to Say

Then I mean talking when one has nothing to say. Who was it said that language had been given us to convey thoughts but most of us use it to conceal the lack of thoughts. Maybe nobody said it except me, but anyhow I think it's good, don't you?

And I know that some one did say "Those who have little business to attend to are great talkers. The less men think the more they talk."

Another thing I call talking too much is entering into endless arguments in which neither party is really sure of his facts, each one uses words and phrases in different senses, and each, after a moment or two loses sight of what the original argument was about.

When You Have No Right to Talk

And thirdly, fourthly and five hundredthly, I call it talking too much when in order to keep talking and hold the center of the stage one uses subject matter that one has no right to use—other people's secrets, unsubstantiated tales about people, personal details that well bred people are reticent about, unkind and uncalled for criticism or ridicule of one's friends.

"Great talkers are like leaky vessels, everything runs out of them."

Avoid them.

And above all, avoid being one.

Beauty Chats by Edna Kent Forbes

YEAST

The excitement about yeast as a cure for digestive and complexion troubles has rather died down this last year. The latest fad is to take quantities of iron into the system in the pleasant and easily digested form of raisins. But I may be out of date about that for I confess I do not follow these fads too seriously. Something else may have succeeded the craze for daily vitamines and iron. Frankly, I wish that instead of the slogans "Have you had your iron today?" or "Have you had your yeast cakes?" which once met my eyes at every turning someone would advertise: "Have you had your six glasses of water today?" But I cannot think who might do that unless possibly it would be the water companies who certainly wouldn't profit much from such advertising.

Most fads have their virtues, at least in theory. The yeast fad was one of the most sensible. Most of our best doctors recommended it. For obstinate cases of pimples and constipation yeast is excellent. Generally speaking, I know of no better blood purifier. Yeast also supplies in rich quantities that important food element called vitamines without which one cannot live. But such tiny quantities of vitamines are necessary that I would not recommend yeast solely for this reason. In my mind its use is as a laxative and blood purifier.

I would suggest three yeast cakes a day for those who wish to clear the face of pimples. These should be taken before or after meals, one cake dissolved in a little water or fruit juice. If they are too laxative, two a day may be quite enough; you can only find out by experimenting. Yeast melted to paste applied to the skin helps to remove pimples and blackheads.

N.—The best way to tint the stray grey hairs is to use henna. This can be done so the natural color of the hair will not be affected. I will be glad to mail you directions for doing this if you wish it and send a stamped addressed envelope.

Mary—The hair in the brows, or anywhere else on the face, will return after it has been pulled out, as the root from which it grows is not affected in this way.

Agnes—If your health is good, your hair will improve if you massage the scalp every day, even though you do not have a tonic for it. The tonic would hasten the improvement.

Mildred—A cure for biting nails is to put something under them that is unpleasant to taste. Bitter aloes is often used for this purpose, as it is harmless.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

SUNDAY DINNER MENU

Okra Broth Olives
Hot Crackers
Ghoulder of Mutton Stuffed with Spinach
Stuffed Green Peppers
Romaine Salad
Cooked Salad Dressing
Brioches Vanilla Glace
Coffee

Okra Broth—Cut two pounds of beef in very small pieces, season with salt and pepper, place in soup pot in which four tablespoons of butter is hot and brown; cook slowly, stirring frequently, until nice and brown; then add one onion, sliced thin, and four quarts of cold water, and let simmer for one hour. Add two cups of okra chopped fine and let simmer for two or three hours longer. Strain through a damp cheesecloth and serve at once. If cooked in fireless, it could be cooked over night and be all the more delicious for the longer cooking.

Shoulder of Mutton Stuffed with Spinach—Remove the stalks and stale leaves from one quart of fresh spinach, thoroughly wash and plunge in a quart of boiling water with one teaspoon salt for ten minutes; drain and press out all the water with the hands, and chop very fine. Place spinach in small saucepan with the yolks of two eggs, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon and a grating of nutmeg. Place pan on fire and slowly cook, while constantly stirring for five minutes. Carefully bone a shoulder of mutton, season with one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon white pepper; spread spinach on inside part of shoulder, neatly fold up and tie all around. Put two slices of salt pork fat, cut in small pieces, one small carrot sliced thin, one small onion sliced thin, one stalk of celery and sprigs of parsley chopped fine and one bay leaf in the bottom of the roasting pan, lay the mutton on top, then pour one-half cup hot water in the pan. Lay one slice of fat pork over the meat and cook in hot oven for fifty minutes.

Stuffed Green Peppers — Cut the stem ends from six green peppers, and remove all seeds; add one-eighth of a teaspoon soda to each pepper, fill with water and let stand thirty minutes. Mix one cup of white sauce with one-half cup cooked rice, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, three onions cooked and chopped fine and one-half teaspoon paprika. Drain pepper cases, fill with rich mixture and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Romaine Salad—Separate the leaves from one head romaine. Wash and dry on a towel, then shred leaves, using scissors. Arrange in salad bowl and pour over cooked salad dressing.

Brioches, Vanilla Glace—Place the yolks of four eggs in a bowl with four tablespoons fine sugar and beat with whisk for five minutes, then add the whites of four eggs beaten to a stiff froth, two tablespoons flour and one teaspoon vanilla extract. Place mixture in a pastry bag with a quarter inch tube at bottom and carefully press the preparation into a lightly buttered and floured baking pan in twelve even round forms. Bake in hot oven twelve minutes, remove and cool. Remove cakes from pan, lay them upside down on baking board, then spread a little strawberry jelly over each cake and fasten two by two. Neatly trim to even size and spread with vanilla glace.

Vanilla Glace—Place one-half cup sugar in small saucepan, add one egg white and one teaspoon vanilla extract; place pan on fire, and stir, while heating 5 minutes.

Interesting Suggestions for Woman Who Is Thinking of Buying a Fur Coat

At the left is a garment suitable for motoring and under all conditions when durability is required. It is of raccoon fur. The other coat combines "cats" and "coons." It is fastened with large leather buttons. A silken cord tends to soften and "tame" the fur.

Book Reviews

Western stories, romance and adventure, these and other themes are taken for the inspiration of many of the new fiction books which have been released for distribution at the Glendale public library on Harvard street. Included in the new books offered are:

"Two-Gun Sue," by Douglas Grant. The fight of a western girl against great odds. A novelty in the field of western fiction is this rapidly moving story of a girl's struggle to hold her property against the encroachments of unscrupulous speculators.

"Shoe-Bar Stratton," by Jos. B. Ames. A story of love and adventure set in the western cow country. The author transports the reader to the great open spaces and plunges them into the thrilling battle a girl is waging to save her ranch.

"Man-Size," by William MacLeod Raine. A romance of the northwest mounted police and of a man hunt through the frozen wilderness.

"Amarilly in Love," by Belle K. Manlaes. The sweet humor and helpful cheeriness of "Amarilly in Clothes Line Alley" are present in this chronicle of the later adventures of the Jenkins family.

"It Is to Laugh," by Edna Geister. An ice-breaking book by a leading expert advisor and director of recreation. Written primarily for the recreation of adults. There are games for large groups and for small; for church social events, for community affairs, games and stunts for almost any kind of social gathering and one whole chapter devoted to out-of-door and picnic programs.

"The First Person Singular," by William Rose Benet. A romance of very modern young people against a mellow background of old-fashioned family life.

"Man-to-Man," by John Leitch. The story of industrial democracy.

"Essays on Books," by William Lyon Phelps.

"Cotton As a World Power," by James A. B. Scherer.

They Say That

A probate court fight among the heirs of James J. Hill and Mrs. Hill has been on of late in St. Paul. The row has been over the appointment of an administrator for Mrs. Hill's estate of $12,000,000. But that is only incidental here. The significant point of public interest is that Louis W. Hill, former business adviser of Mrs. Hill, testified that beginning in 1916 and continuing until 1919 he disposed of heavily taxed securities held by his principal, substituting therefor tax-free holdings, and in this way increased her annual income from $365,000 to $730,000 a year; that is, he doubled net returns.

Here is a concrete example of the working of the tax exempt bond evil anybody can understand at a glance. In a single instance, in the case of a personal fortune which is surpassed by several in Michigan which have been similarly invested, a little shrewd readjustment has withdrawn $365,000 annually from the reach of the tax gatherers.

But the money thus lost to the public treasuries must be found somewhere, so the burden is shifted to business enterprise, to people who are obliged to work for their living, to the widow with a cottage instead of a palace.

If the case of the estate of Mrs. Hill were an isolated one, the matter would not be worth mentioning. But unfortunately it is typical of hundreds of other cases. A good many billions of dollars are tied up in tax exempt securities in this country. Figure very conservatively on the basis of what was done with the estate of Mrs. Hill by expert handling, and the extra weight of taxation placed in consequence on the shoulders of those whose property enjoys no exemptions becomes appalling. It runs into the hundreds of millions, possibly into the billions annually. It easily makes the difference between a situation in which the nation could handle its financial problems easily, and the present very difficult economic condition.

It's a Fact

NATION DRYING UP

Putting a kick in prohibition is costing the government around $10,000,000 a year and will take at least a decade.' So says Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes. The prohibition machine is knocking a bit now, Haynes admits, but the knocks are chiefly from knockers who are feeling the pinch of enforcement activities. Millionaire bootleggers are in the past, he says. They were thriving a year or so ago, but now there aren't any such things. The bootleg business is languishing. Wood alcohol and badly distilled drinks are still causing deaths and cases of blindness, but customers are getting more wary. New significance is given these days to the advice "beware of the first drink," for the first may be the last, if you get the wrong brand. Prohibition officials control all bonded red liquor and say they have decreased smuggling.

"In ten or twelve years," Haynes says, "we'll hear as little against national prohibition as we hear now about prohibition in states that have had it for generations." Appropriation for prohibition enforcement last year was $9,250,000. This year it is $7,500,000. Income in the internal revenue department from distilled and fermented spirits for an average year before prohibition was $134,868,034.12. Last year the revenue from "nonbeverage" spirits withdrawn from bond was $78,097,756.93. Income last year from prohibition enforcement fines, forfeitures, etc., approximated $5,000,000.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My Dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember always to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper and please remember that, on account of the hundreds of letters received in every mail, I cannot make personal replies. I appreciate very much the beautiful personal letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest; for the rest you must consult your personal physicians.

"Dear Doctor: I have gained ten pounds in the last two months and I am tickled to death. Have been counting my calories and found that I was eating about half what I should and wondering why I was so thin.—L. B."

Our T. T. T.'s are straggling in. Not anywhere near at the rate of the F. F. F.'s, but this is not to be expected because there are not nearly so many of them. I wish those of you who are trying to gain and are getting results would give us a little more detail of just what you are doing, whether you are gradually making your meals larger or taking food between meals or adding extra milk and eggs, etc.

Mrs. F. J.—You must remember that babies and children are in reality only little animals and they haven't any idea of the significance of certain actions. What you say of your baby is nothing to worry about. The habit undoubtedly was contracted in the first place from the irritation, but now that the irritation no longer exists the habit that has been formed persists. If you will smartly slap her hands every time they offend and say, "No, no, baby," she will soon associate the pain and the habit, and will discontinue it undoubtedly. Do not do this in anger, you understand.

At 13 months of age she needs more food than you are giving her. That is why she is thin. I think you had better see a child specialist and have him give you specific directions for increasing her diet. The address of the manufacturer that sells the pinless wardrobe has been sent in the envelope you enclosed.

Mrs. M. H.—Your boy who is suffering from tuberculosis should be under the care of your personal physician. Undoubtedly daily olive oil rubs should be beneficial not only for the stimulation of the circulation but because some of the oil would be absorbed.

There are some books written on the home care of tuberculosis. If you will inquire at your bookstore they will tell you of them. Does he live in the open air all of the time? In southern California where you live he could do that. Doctor Pottenger, in his book, Tuberculosis and How to Combat It, written for the layman, says:

"Individuals who live in badly ventilated rooms with their bodies surrounded by stale air, lack nerve and mental stability as well as physical tone. They fail to digest and assimilate their food properly, consequently suffer from a low state of vitality. Other conditions being equal, the converse is true of those who live in the open. Their cellular activity is stimulated and their nerve and physical tone is greatly improved."

Mrs. W.—I am not in private practice through correspondence nor locally, so your request for me to treat you personally and to send my bill cannot be complied with; although I thank you for the compliment and the confidence.

If you will send for our article on constipation, you will undoubtedly get some suggestions that will help you. The pamphlet on gaining has been sent. You will have to stop working so hard that you get so tired, especially as it apparently is not necessary. Tell that dictator of yours to go to.

Fairview Tract Proving Popular

Hamlin & Hepburn Tell of Subdivivision Work; Many New Homes Built

When Hamlin & Hepburn, subdividers of Fairview, secured the first ten acres in the northwest part of the city of Glendale, they were advised by a great many people that it should be subdivided and sold as acres instead of city lots. This opinion was doubtless expressed because no building to speak of had taken place in that district and the land was devoted mostly to the raising of potatoes, tomatoes and melons. There was no water, gas or electricity on the land and it did seem to some people that it was a long ways from being a settled community.

Hamlin & Hepburn, however, had faith that this beautiful territory so close to boulevards and electric car transportation would appeal to homeseekers and that lots sold at reasonable prices and on reasonable terms, would find a ready market. Their judgment in the matter has been justified.

Sell Many Lots

In the last year over 500 lots have been sold and 150 homes built, streets have been put in, over two miles and a half of water mains installed, about the same amount of gas mains, electric lines, street lights and now about two mlies of three-inch macadam pavement, curbs and sidewalks are about to be installed.

Not only have all these improvements been made but population has actually come, so that today it is a thriving, fast developing section of the wonder city of Glendale. Approximately half of the pupils of the new Grand View grammar school are from Fairview.

Besides the new street work in the tract which will cover Fourth street from Western avenue to Elm, Glenwood road from Western avenue to Elm and Raymond avenue, Thompson avenue, Irving avenue and Allen avenue and Linden from Fourth street to Glenwood road, Kenneth road is to be opened with macadam pavements, curbs and sidewalks along the entire north end of the tract.

Selling Tenth Unit

The ninth unit of Fairview, put on the market about a month ago, is now completely sold and the tenth unit is about half sold. There is no other section in the city of Glendale where lots can be purchased for such a reasonable price and on such exceptionally low terms, only $25 cash being required to secure a contract for a lot with payments of $10 and $15 per month, it is announced.

Hamlin & Hepburn believe that every family should own their own home and that if it is impossible at once to have a six, eight or ten thousand dollar place, that it is better to have a start with a smaller place. To help people who have heretofore rented, to get a start with a home, they not only sell the lot at terms within the reach of everybody, but they assist purchasers in making financial arrangements to put up temporary homes of neat construction at once. In this way the rent money is diverted to payments on the purchaser's own property.

Since Hamlin & Hepburn started subdividing in this section, at least six different subdivisions have been opened up, surrounding them on all sides.

Best Citizenship Is Found Here

L. A. Hart Gives Some of Reasons Why This City's Future Is Assured

Asked relative to Glendale and his faith in it, L. A. Hart, manager of the Hart Realty company, declared:

"Back in 1914—sounds ancient, does it not? But at that time Glendale proudly boasted of a citizenship that had every confidence in the future growth of the Jewel City and who were willing to back their judgment with their investments in real estate, and to declare Glendale their future home for themselves and families.

"The future population of any city depends on its resources, and better yet its coming generation. The religious and educational features of Glendale are unsurpassed and unquestioned.

"This asset above all else assures the steady increase in population composed of the best citizenship in the United States.

"Where in all the world is there a country lying out under the stars so rich in varied resources, offering so much comfort, so much of pleasure, health and uninterrupted progress and prosperity as Southern California?

"Where in all southern California is there a city that offers safe security for your investments than Glendale, the Jewel City beautiful? Investment is largely a gamble in human needs.

"Safe investment is investment in the steady current of human requirement. No spot in America offers safer returns for your investments than Southern California, but Glendale in particular leads the state.

"For the past eight years my confidence in Glendale has not been shaken and now that we are entering in this state on one of the most progressive eras of all history connected with the growth of Glendale and vicinity my faith remains unshaken and I feel sure that my judgment will be sustained beyond question. We have nearly a fourth of the present year yet to go on so let's all pull together to make a record impossible to equal."

MORMON MISSION WORKERS IN CITY

Sunday School Soon to Be Organized Here; Street Meetings Planned

Another religious organization is to be added to Glendale's list of churches with the organization of a Sunday school of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons), by S. W. Daynes and E. R. Cayton, missionaries who have come from Salt Lake City, Utah, to conduct organization work in Glendale, where there are about 100 of their faith.

It is the plan of these two missionaries to hold street meetings every Saturday night, the first meeting to be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway. Leon P. Jensen, president of the Los Angeles conference of the Latter Day Saints church, is to be the speaker and there will be special music.

The public is invited to attend the meetings and in announcing their plans Mr. Daynes and Mr. Cayton emphasize that no collections are ever solicited at any of their meetings.

Announcement will be made later of the time and place of meeting of the Sunday school. It is the plan to hold the first meeting two weeks from tomorrow.

FROM PARIS TO BERLIN

PARIS, Oct. 14.—England today proposed complete reorganization of the inter-allied reparations commission and the removal of headquarters offices from Paris to Berlin.

South Brand Realty In Demand, Report

Real estate activity in Glendale is more pronounced at this time of the year than for some time past and especially is this true of property on South Brand boulevard, as will be seen from the reports of recent sales in this district made by the firm of Hanson, McMillan & Schuyler of 122 West Broadway. Among their recent sales are included the following: Three lots on South Brand, near Maple, to D. J. Hanna, one lot on Brand near Maple to A. J. Spier, one lot on Brand near Lomita to George W. Leihy, one lot on Brand near Garfield to E. A. Radcliff, one lot on Brand near Garfield to J. F. Stanford, two lots on Brand near Cypress to W. L. Thompson, one lot on Brand near Garfield to E. L. Schuyler, one lot on Brand near Cypress to J. F. Stanford, one lot on Brand near Cypress to Mr. Whitaker.

A number of the purchasers intend to improve their property with buildings, according to Messrs. McMillan and Hanson, who state that the contemplated lowering of the tracks on Brand boulevard has done much in stimulating interest in this particular section.

This firm also reports the sale of a fifty foot lot on San Fernando road, just fifty feet south of Los Feliz to H. H. Brown of Los Angeles for a consideration of $10,000. Mr. Brown will improve the property with a building.

HARRY GIRARD GIVEN GREETING

Popular Singer Hobbles to Kiwanis Club; Receives Royal Reception

school enrollment, motion was made by William Bode that the Kiwanis club should endorse the bond issue which will be presented at the polls next Friday. This action was taken.

Inquiry was made by Normal C. Hayhurst, head of the physical training department at the high school, if it would not be possible for the members of the club to go to the polls in a body on election day.

President Lyman P. Clark, who presided, ruled that this matter would have to be taken up by the board of directors.

Boy Scouts Guests

H. F. Benner, Boy Scout executive, and three Boy Scouts were guests of honor at the luncheon. They were Dallas Kalbaugh, Robert Eastman and Clifford Wolcott. The three boys made short talks in which they related some of their experiences at the recent Boy Scout conclave in Sacramento.

Mayor Spencer Robinson, who was elected an honorary Boy Scout and attended the camp on Catalina Island, could not resist the temptation to make a rousing speech endorsing the Boy Scout movement.

The silent boost was a pound of coffee at the place of each club member. This was furnished by "Burt" Perry of 1619 South Glendale avenue. The gift was received with pleasure by all present.

The attendance prize was a refillable nickel-plated lead pencil which was won by Dr. J. C. Luccock. He was encouraged to read a "pome" which many insisted that they could not hear, about "somebody who did something that somebody didn't like just because somebody did something else." A vote of censorship was restrained on this gossip.

Mayor Spencer Robinson sang the "vocal obligato" to "Old Irish Rose" so well that he was given an alternative of either singing it as a solo or paying a fine of 50 cents. As soon as he had finished singing it, he was fined 25 cents for not throwing more sotto voce into the affair. He tried hard to shift the blame to Allan N. Fairchild, who played the accompaniment, but could not get away with it.

"Mike" Berman, as master-at-arms, had a good time at the luncheon collecting fines.

The recent baseball victory of the Kiwanis club was commented upon by "Bill" Reeves, chairman of the baseball committee. He congratulated "Charlie" F. Stuart for the sale of over $24 worth of tickets and thanked R. F. Adams and Sid Brown for their contributions to the success of the Boy Scout benefit.

For some unknown reason C. D. Thom, E. P. Hayward and Ray Galvin remained quiescent during the entire luncheon and refused to "function" hilariously. Biscuits remained on the table—outside of two dropped by the city manager.

Several matters of business, including the selection of delegates to the convention November 4 and 5 at San Francisco, were brought up by Secretary Don H. Webb.

Don Orput, representative of the Community Service organization, was introduced but did not speak.

Chickens, who attended the luncheon, were welcomed joyously. However, they were soon devoured.

Besides those mentioned already, the following were present: W. H. Hooper, J. H. Wittmeyer, Earle C. Pendroy, A. L. Baird, Dr. John Anderson, T. C. Young, Frank Echols, P. J. Hayselden, Atty. James F. McBryde, Atty. Bert Woodard, Fred Deal, Ray Bentley, Frank H. Pilling, Dr. Edward Swift, Dr. C. W. Taylor, Dr. R. W. Sherred, E. O. Kiefer, Dr. R. M. Ritchey, Burton McGinnis, R. M. McGee, Ray Goode, E. F. Sanders, Robert Corrigan, T. M. Furst, W. L. Taylor, Herman Nelson, Eddie Henney, H. M. Parker and Dr. W. T. Hart.

CONSTRUCTION IS IMPORTANT PART

Donald R. Gillin, Service Manager for Lumber Firm, Expresses His Views

"Good architecture is real economy," so reasons Donald R. Gillin, service manager for the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company at 460 West Los Feliz road.

"The term architecture," says Mr. Gillin, "implies good construction, which implies long life for the building and minimizes upkeep. Good architecture for one's home is within the reach of all, so far as plans and specifications are concerned, however small the project, and this company produces well-designed home plans for practically any number of rooms. These designs are made by some of the best architects in the United States and accompanying them are all the legal data such as contract forms which protect the owner from every standpoint.

Good Materials

"In good construction comes the use of good materials, which the Bentley-Schoeneman company are handling. The proper use of right-sized timbers in the framing of a house should be determined by one experienced and this experience is now at your disposal in all our plans.

"Kitchen design and convenience are of utmost importance, light and ventilation of bedrooms, adequate closet room, the plumbing and heating are vital for the comfort of the home. The kinds of floors, and the interior and exterior paint, these and many other important details are included in our working drawings and specifications."

Man Who Has Made Number of Ocean Trips Relates Experiences

hearing they breathed sighs of relief for they had suspected it of being a bomb.

War In Ireland

"As to conditions in Ireland, it is needless for me to explain the differences in northern and southern Ireland. The northern people are not rebellious against British rule, while the south is.

"It is the civil war in the south that is killing Irish prosperity and as soon as the war ceases prosperity will return. May I tell you a verse I have written to Ireland? Here it is:

"O Ireland, dear Ireland,
Thou pearl of the sea,
Thy people are longing
Today to be free.
But freedom with strife,
And hatred of heart
Will cause thy dear sons
To be ever apart.

Lower Classes

"I was particularly interested in the condition of the lower classes, who are more free than ever before in the country's history. By the existence of a government land commission the people are able to borrow the full amount for a home at low interest, which makes it possible for the lower class families to own their own homes and be self supporting. The prices of farms and homes are decided entirely by the commission and the money lent accordingly.

"We made the trip home on the Anchor line steamer Columbian, arriving in eight days. Then we spent three weeks with relatives in our old home in Baltimore, Maryland.

"On our trip westward we were accompanied by Miss Margaret Wilson, who had been spending three months with relatives in Philadelphia, Pa., during our absence abroad."

Mrs. J. Rhea Baker Teaches Bible Class

Mrs. J. Rhea Baker of 531 North Maryland avenue is serving as teacher of the Bible class to be held every Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Knestrick at 1002 North Louise street. Mrs. Baker has been appointed by the Bible Institute and has had many years' experience as a "four-fold Gospel" teacher. The class has been organized a month and the membership is growing very rapidly.

Fred Minden Opens Tailoring Shop Here

Fred Minden is a recent arrival from San Francisco and has opened a tailor shop at 108 South Maryland and is prepared to handle all kinds of tailoring work. Mr. Minden has been connected with some of the largest tailoring houses in San Francisco and Chicago, and has come to Glendale with the desire to establish a business here.

"I want to demonstrate my ability to Glendale people," says Mr. Minden, "and prove to them that they can have as expert and satisfactory work done in Glendale at reasonable prices as they can in Los Angeles or any other city."

SOCIAL GATHERING AT NEW SCHOOL

Pleasing Program Is Given Last Night to Dedicate Grand View Building

brought his usual good humor with him and extended best wishes to the "bunch" at Grand View in behalf of the City of Glendale.

Come in Bunches

"You know," he remarked, "I always call you 'the Grand View bunch' because you all cluster together. I have never seen one or two of you come up to a council meeting. No, indeed! You all come up together.

"I am not going to brag on your school. You all know that it is beautiful. We are proud of the schools of Glendale. We are proud of the people who live here."

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce was represented by Secretary James M. Rhoades. Commenting on the new tax rate, which includes $2.18 for school purposes, he called attention to the fact that some class rooms in the city were almost as crowded as the school room occupied by the audience.

The Federated Improvement association was represented by its president, Dr. Jessie Russell of 208 South Brand boulevard.

'I want to congratulate you on your new schoolhouse," she asserted. "You haven't a little cubby-hole—you have a school that is started out right. You haven't any apologies whatever to make. I want to congratulate you on your civic pride in coming out tonight. I think you have one of the most charming, delightful principals we have in Glendale. I believe in giving Cecil Brunners while a person is still here to enjoy them."

Several Make Talks

The grammar school system was represented by Superintendent Richardson D. White, who remarked: "I feel that this is an occasion for you to congratulate yourselves and for Glendale to congratulate you. The schools of the community are just exactly what the people of the community want. The kind of schools you want are the kind of schools that you are going to get. This school is here because you wanted it and because you wanted this kind of a school."

An appeal for parents to cooperate with the teachers was made by J. A. Lewis of 1122 Irving street who stated that he is sending his children to the Grand View school.

Alex Mitchell of 2001 Kenneth road, president of the Foothill Improvement association, served as master of ceremonies.

Other speakers during the program were E. F. Sanders, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Councilmen Sam Davis and A. H. Lapham and Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police.

Home-made cake of various flavors, but all of the same uniform unsurpassable quality and ice-cream were served in generous portions

Cab Driver Tenor Wins Scholarship

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Sam Pasmanick, taxicab driver, and known as "the golden-voiced tenor," has been awarded a musical scholarship in the Horner institute here against a field of contestants, representing the talent of the city.

Sam has always had an intense love for music. He drives a taxicab to eat regularly, but his heart is elsewhere. When he was a small boy and started to imitate the efforts of artists he had heard on the phonograph, he was told on various occasions, "For heaven's sake, shut up." However, this didn't stop Sam's "tra-la-las."

All of Sam's friends admitted he had a voice. Shortly after he had commenced driving for the cab company he began to take lessons, but was forced to discontinue them because they were so expensive. But he continued to sing.

Sam's cab was parked near the Union station recently, and Sam was waiting for a fare when one of his friends came up and told him a contest for musical scholarship was being held at Horner's. In a few minutes Sam was very nearly exceeding the speed limit in his haste to arrive at the institute.

Sam plunged into a room, which swarmed with people dressed in the height of fashion. Sam, attired in his cab uniform, cap, puttees and all, was the center of attention for a time. Glances from each of the elegant assemblage were focused upon him. The contestants continued to display their vocal abilities.

Soon sam had his turn, and before he had finished those who had been prone to laugh at the idea of a taxicab driver entering a musical contest, were all attention.

"A fine dramatic tenor," said the judges and they gave him the scholarship. Now Sam gets two lessons a week free for a period of one year.

DECORATIONS AID IN REALTY SALES

Plenty Reasons Why Home Should Be Made Most Attractive by Owner

By EDWARD H. HALL

In the discussion of this subject "Home Decoration As An Aid in the Selling or Renting Real Estate," we desire to keep well in mind two points. First, effecting a sale quickly; secondly, getting a good price.

The principle involved is the same whatever you are selling, be it a house, a horse or an automobile, namely, that of making it appear to the best possible advantage and creating a desire in the mind of the prospective customer for the article offered. In the case under consideration a residence, or rather a home, the amount of money and the other considerations are greater and of more importance than is the case in the majority of articles for sale; therefore, correspondingly greater care should be exercised in making it appear well. Furthermore, there is more involved in the purchase of a house to the buyer than in other purchases as the various members of the family are interested and if the property is pleasing more are pleased and vice versa. A hat, dress, coat, or even an automobile may be selected to suit but one individual, but not so with a house for it is not only a house but a home, a place of residence and is for the expression of more than one. Persons are known by their homes. It is their "judgment seat," a place for the expression of good or bad taste. The occupants are to be known by home surroundings, by the part that is in the surface more than by the hidden parts of construction, the surface of ceilings, walls and floors. Therefore, is it not of paramount importance that the house you offer for sale or rent should stress these features, and if such features are stressed is it not probable that you will effect your sale more quickly? Now these surfaces, the things that make the first impression, the first point in your sales are affected by the colors in the rooms and the designs which give the colors their relation to each other. In the changed modern way of living, people want and demand the beautiful equally with the practical and there is no agency that helps to satisfy this demand like good decorating.

Landlords See the Point

Landlords, especially owners of high priced apartments, have recognized this fact and spend large sums annually on decoration, reasoning that they not only get good returns from their investment but that their property will be always rented; thus there will be no cessation of income. What is true of good renting property applies more forcibly to selling property and it has often been a matter of great surprise that real estate agents, men who are classed as keen business men and who avail themselves of unusual means and work hard to effect sales, have not more generally recognized this the simplest and most direct method of attaining the desired end. That they with their shrewd business instincts have so long ignored this agency as a valued aid is quite beyond the writer's comprehension, for I say without fear of successful contradiction

Hundreds of Families Coming to Glendale Every Month in Year

Over 600 persons every month are coming to Glendale to reside!

The entire population of the earth is now estimated at 1,600,000,000. Unless the Glendale Realty Board takes drastic steps immediately to stop this influx the entire human family will be located in the San Fernando Valley in about two hundred and twenty-two thousand, two hundred and twenty-two years!

This fact was proved today by statistics submitted by James F. McIntyre, commercial agent for the public service department.

Getting serious, proof exists that there are about 3.25 persons in Glendale for every electric light meter. There are now over 8768 of these meters in local service. This means that the population of "this here town" is close to 30,000.

During the twelve months ending October 1, 1922, 2225 light meters were installed. This represents an influx of over 7231 persons, or over 139 persons every week. This means one new family every two days.

MOULDINGS HELP BEAUTIFY ROOMS

Belong More to Decorator Than to Carpenter; Aid Uninteresting Quarters

Many an otherwise uninteresting room has been made interesting by the use of mouldings, for, while it is well to remember the rule of decorating construction, and not constructing decoration, mouldings are so much a part of successful decoration and the range of their possibilities for decorative purposes so great that they may well be considered under the head of decoration rather than under that of construction. It is perhaps unfortunate that many decorators have thought mouldings belonged more to the sphere of the architect, cabinetmaker, carpenter or upholsterer, and this view has been the cause of the decorator missing many a golden opportunity to transform a plain barn-like room into a thing of beauty and interest. As a medium for the breaking up of ungainly, tiresome and commonplace rooms into concentrated spaces of interest, give me mouldings. Mixed with brains and the many truly decorative wall papers so suited for panel effects the decorator and home-maker have at their command, an unlimited means for varied effects. There comes to the writer many successful treatments applied to the ordinary home by the use of mouldings, some of which are worthy of mention. We say ordinary home, because the extraordinary home will take care of itself, where the architect has usually provided it with structural accessories for decorating, or rather the architect has seen to it that the extraordinary house is finished in more careful detail than is the ordinary home, many of which are built without the careful architectural supervision given to the more expensive residence. Here is the decorator's

Every street in Glendale is "Easy Street." Easy to look at. Easy to find. Easy to live upon. Easy to make money on. Easy to sell on Easy Street.

In this section of The Glendale Evening News there is every inducement offered for one to settle down on "Easy Street." A lot of rent receipts are not easy to look at. They represent hard-earned money. They are no asset. The same money applied on a home would create borrowing power.

A chain is as strong as its weakest link. In other words, the depth of your content and the extent of your wife's happiness is subjected to an unfair strain if the possession of your own home does not cement the two.

The links of the chain of your own life are mainly forged by you. But with your home — which is like a keystone — you can forge for lasting happiness.

"Better Homes" campaign is being observed throughout the country. As befitted the national character of the campaign and its importance to our citizenship at large, the president of the United States has given it his hearty endorsement and emphasized it.

MANY HINTS FOR HOME BEAUTIFUL

Mirrors, Draperies, Friezes Used to Advantage In Improving Rooms

The use of mirrors, draperies, friezes, ceiling treatments and other questions will now be discussed.

Question—What is the use and value of mirrors in decoration?

Answer—As a decorative medium they have a wide use. They give pleasant illusions and splendid distance effects. Place one in the hall if possible, opposite the entrance or hall door, or opposite the entrance to the living room to give a sense of spaciousness. Place one on a dark wall where it will catch and reflect the light. Place one above the sideboard that it may catch and reflect the gleam of the polished glass, it will greatly improve the room. Place one opposite the dining room window, so that when sitting at the table the out-of-doors is reflected. Place one in the bed room where it will reflect the mirror of the dressing table. Flowers placed in front of a mirror are twice as effective as they are when placed against a wall. Wherever you have a dull spot and want illusion, there place a mirror.

Use of Friezes

Q.—What is the use of a frieze, or border?

A.—To furnish or decorate large blank wall spaces that are too high for pictures and which, if left plain, are monotonous. They give a top to the room and act as an architectural feature in rooms that have no cornice; acting as a division of the walls from the ceiling. Get expert advice in using them. They often give climax to a room and furnish a point for the introduction of a note of color found in the rugs or draperies.

Q.—What are the better papers for children's rooms?

A.—Papers that appeal to the imagination or tell a story. A

SOLVE PROBLEM OF SMALL HOME

Disappearing Furniture Is Useful; Things That Fold Up Are Necessary

One of the particular problems of a certain class of southern California home-making is a lack of space. There are people who desire large homes, but find it necessary to live in miniature replicas of such.

It is not the size of the house that makes it a better home, fortunately, and these split-pint homes are as desirable from our standpoint as the larger ones. The point is that they have special problems, and they have been met by local concerns in unique and reasonable ways.

When there is only one room to an apartment, with bath, kitchenette and dressing room adjoining, then that room must be carefully furnished to give the maximum use and pleasure. Firms show disappearing beds, which are a solution of the main problem, in a variety of designs and forms which astound visitors from away.

Great Variety

These beds do everything but vanish into thin air. They may "shut up" into a dozen of other pieces of furniture—wardrobes, bookcases, and the like; they may slide into a closet, where they take an infinitesimal bit of room, and on the door which conceals them one sees mirror, hat rack, desk, buffet and the like.

One form of this disappearing furniture is really a closet form; the bed folds up and disappearing furniture is really a closet form; the bed folds up and disappears into a closet, but is not forced to stay there—no, indeed! Gliding noiselessly and lightly at the touch of the hand, it comes forth onto another corner of the room, or out on the sleeping porch, which is in use as part of the living room during the day.

There are, of course, dozens of variations of folding tables—tables which drop back into or against the wall, and which take little or no room when not in use. There are ingenious contrivances shown locally which are as much magic as Aladdin's lamp.

In the kitchen, limited in space, there is a cupboard. Above one sees china, pots and pans, while doors and drawers below doubtless conceal the other table and cooking things. Then the door is opened, pulling down instead of opening out to the side. Sturdy legs drop forward; the door has become a table.

Breakfast Nook

From the walls on either side, folded flat up against them, or else used as smaller cupboards, the seats or benches are pulled down and behold, one has a Pullman breakfast nook whereupon the meal is served in comfort. Then the table and chairs are folded up again, and the kitchen room, at a premium for other uses, is unimpaired!

Sometimes these doors conceal the ironing board, and there is a folding or disappearing board which also may be opened out to a work table when the board is not required. There is a cabinet, much like the kitchen cupboard described above, for use in dining-room, bedroom or any other corner, which contains a disappearing sewing room. The door, pulled down, discloses shelves, while the door itself becomes a substantial cutting table. The electric machine may be concealed within when not in use.

Clothes chutes, broom closets, and countless other necessities are ingeniously planned and tucked away into corners or into the wall, where they are least expected, yet where every inch of space is utilized. It is well worth your time to inspect such arrangements for they may be introduced into your own better home solving any individual problem successfully.

SAY FRED MOORE BUSY BUILDING

Much Activity Reported at Office of Glendale Contractor Now

Fred Moore, contractor and builder at 212½ North Brand boulevard, reports over thirty buildings now under construction. They include a $12,000 home in Whittier and a $10,000 alteration job in La Crescenta for Harvey J. Bissell.

Mr. Moore is also starting three more houses in Oakridge, which include a $10,000 home for himself. Other building includes: A stucco residence on North Kenwood for Theodore Helms, and a fine home for R. N. Stryker on Oak street. Work is also being done at Santa Monica, Culver City and Los Angeles, it is announced.

Soldier Legislation Favored by Realtors

The California Real Estate association, at its last state convention and at its directors' meetings, has gone on record unanimously in favor of the Veterans' legislation to be voted on at the November election. These measures in which ex-service men are interested, President C. C. C. Tatum declared, in a statement issued by the Association News department, include No. 1 (Veterans' Validating act), No. 3 (Soldiers' bonds). Sentiment is quite general throughout the state in favor of these soldier measures.

Hardware Proves Important Part of Construction

It is not only for ornament that one puts locks and other forms of hardware on doors of the home. They must be sturdy and strong, with full protective powers, but, also, they may harmonize perfectly and unobstructively with the architecture treatment of the home. In iron, in bronze, in brass, this hardware may be chosen with an eye to its beauty as well as to its use, and as such things ordinarily last a lifetime, it behooves the homemaker to choose with care and forethought.

Within the house, such things as hinges, locks, handles, knobs and the like should be carefully selected, for they oftener make or mar the furniture or door of which they are a part than one would think.

Sometimes glass knobs are more fitting, or those of pottery or China. Often the changing of the fastenings of the doors will make a decided and pleasing difference in the appearance of the doors and attention to that little detail is one of the minute things which go toward making "better homes."

good plan for a child's room is to use a fabric paper or a small figured paper about four feet from the floor, place a grooved strip of wood half an inch wide, with the groove up, put a like strip ten inches above that with the groove down. This will hold pictures that can be changed at will without damaging the wall paper. By having pieces of cardboard cut ten inches wide on which pictures from magazines can be pasted, the children can have a room of continued interest. This plan can also be made of great educational value.

Q.—What should be the relative cost of decorating a house?

A.—Presuming this to mean the walls and ceilings only, houses up to $10,000 can be decorated well with an expenditure of from 5 to 7 per cent of the total cost of the structure. Homes costing $10,000 to $25,000 to erect should cost from 7 to 10 per cent for decorating and so on up according to the more elaborate requirements of the hundred thousand class of class of house. Right here let us add that there is no expenditure that you make in building your home that will show as much, or that will give you as much pleasure as the amount you spend for decoration.

Arrangement of Colors

Q.—Can colors be arranged properly from a natural gift?

A.—The question involves rather a lengthy answer. It is sometimes assumed that the power to arrange colors harmoniously is a natural gift, rather than an art, acquired by study. There is as much truth in this assumption as there would be in the same theory as applied to music. Without going into details, we all know that the music of the savage represents the power of arranging sound tones in the minimum of harmony. That the music of the uncultured individuals of civilized races represents the power of so arranging sound tones to a degree immeasurably below that of an educated musician, and that to such uncultured people classical music is as uninteresting as is the lower grade music to the musician. To apply the same test to color. We all know that to the infant eye a crude red, yellow and blue picture is more pleasing than a delicately painted landscape, and that the lower we go down in the scale of art education the less harmony do we get in the color scheme of female attire and domestic adornment. In fact, crude color and crude sound affect the animal faculties. The relationship between color and sound is indeed very close. Color acts on the retina of the eye through atmospheric vibrations in much the same way as sound acts on the drum of the ear. The close relationship of the phenomena of sound and color has long exercised professors, especially in Germany, and the scales are now capable of being transposed, with the result that a pleasing sound harmony translated into the color scale is proved to produce an equally pleasing color scheme. It would be a long answer to go into the science of color. Enough has been said to show that effects obtainced from a natural gift rather than from training would be accidental rather than correct, and therefore unsafe.

Use of Draperies

Q.—What is the place of draperies in decoration?

A.—The purpose, possibilities and the problems of curtains and hangings may well occupy some of our time. One prominent writer has said, "From one viewpoint they are really a part of the background. From another angle they are more than this: they are the first decorative idea used with the walls and trim as a background for them. A discussion of curtains and hangings involves two questions: what to hang and how to hang it. I think we must consider hangings as a decorative note. If the walls are proper backgrounds—plain, simple and free from objects which attract undue attention—the curtains may be stronger in color and more striking in pattern, and still be of most fascinating quality. Printed linens, damasks, brocades, chintzes, etc., according to the character of the room, may be used with simple backgrounds to produce a simple decorative effect. If the patterns show a floral treatment the decorative effect is better when the curtains are drawn aside, thus presenting a charming color effect without the introduction of the naturalistic idea in a too prominent way. If more than one set of curtains is to be hung, the inner pair may be net, fine plain lace, thin silk or casement cloth, according to the textural quality needed in the design idea. The outer or heavy hanging, which is more within the room, may be of any of the heavier materials before mentioned. The outer hanging serves three purposes: it adds a note of elegance and richness to the decorative idea, it may be used to regulate the amount of light during the day time, and, when closely drawn at night gives to the room an air of seclusion and privacy as well as richness that is difficult to obtain in any other way. How to hang curtains is a little harder to determine. Window trims, the condition of woodwork of the frame, the size of the openings all have a bearing on this point. If the wood is ugly or if you desire larger decorative effect, cover the entire casing. In general, however, the inside curtain—that is, the one next the glass, should be hung inside the window casing so that it fits exactly the window space when drawn. The outside curtains are usually hung on the face of the casing and the rods should be obscured as much as possible.

GLENDALE GROWTH SATISFACTORY ONE

Offers Excellent Security to Investors; Lusby Company Aids Development

W. E. Lusby, vice-president of the Lusby Mortgage & Investment company, makes the following interesting statement:

"During the past few years tremendous impetus has been given to home building and the acquiring of home property, not only in California, but throughout practically every state in the union, and the reasons have been economic rather than sentimental. The purchase or building of homes in ever-increasing numbers appears to the student of political economy to be but one phase of our economic growth as a nation. Prior to the outbreak of the world war, American investors were beginning to invest heavily in foreign securities, for the very logical reason that the fund of invested capital was increasing faster than it could be profitably invested in this country. The war came along and now, in the short space of a few years, we find ourselves the world's greatest creditor nation. To obtain an adequate picture of this truth, one has but to look at the tremendous oversubscription of between one and two billion dollars to the government's call within the past week for one-half billion dollars at 4½ per cent for refunding purposes.

Development Work

"With such enormous sums seeking employment, is it not the most natural thing in the world to expect that a considerable portion will find that employment in the development of the country's natural resources, and coincident with that development, in the building up of home and business properties? Southern California furnishes all the proof necessary.

"Glendale has had a truly remarkable growth in population and building activity in the past few years, and the encouraging thing to the property owner and the business man is that the great expansion in building has been well digested. This condition is certainly evident to the newcomer who is in search of a temporary or permanent home or place of business. One does not have to inquire far to learn that Glendale residents are uniformly satisfied and are here to stay. That is the best advertisement any city can have.

"The Lusby Mortgage & Investment company is but an expression, in a business way, of the confidence of its incorporators in the future of this city as a thriving home community. We have been and still are firmly convinced that there is need here in Glendale of a medium such as ours through which investors and borrowers may get together to their mutual advantage and to the great advantage of the city as a whole.

Money for Loans

For the benefit of those who have not yet been in to see us, or who have not yet learned of the establishment of this business, we take pleasure in stating that we are at all times prepared to lend against first mortgage collateral, to discount, buy and sell first mortgage loans already made, trust deeds, real estate and lease contracts, and to place insurance. We have unlimited funds at our disposal on very reasonable terms for loans on homes, flats, apartments, stores and office buildings, for three, five, seven, or ten years. We make a specialty of building loans at rates which we believe to be more favorable than those being quoted by most of the finance companies.

"To investors we wish to say that we offer excellent security, a liberal interest return, and a comforting knowledge that those directing the company's activities have throughout their business careers shown unimpeachable records for fairness, reliability and financial responsibility."

OUTDOOR NOOKS ADD TO HOUSES

Patios and Gardens Demand Right Kind of Furniture; Appropriate Designs

There are so many sunny livable days in southern California that a home without an outdoor living room, nook or patio is indeed unfortunate. There are so many charming things with which to make it livable. Of course, there is a garden. No matter how small, it's a place of flowers and shrubs, and maybe a friendly tree or so.

But flowers and trees are not enough. There are many lovable pieces to add: Trellises and seats, tables, pergolas, and sundial and bird-bath. Southern California takes pride in its lovely outdoor spots, and the development of fitting furnishings for these spots has long been a source of pride and interest to the stores and shops. Pieces in the simplest of woods, in the loveliest of reed and fiber, in the most handsome of wrought iron and metals, are exhibited, and one longs to have as many changes of garde nfurnishings as one has centerpieces for the table!

Design Essential

Good design in garden furniture is essential, even when the gate above the hedge is a simple arch, above an open lattice, and the comfortable seat a lattice-like companion. In the more formal Spanish garden there are lovely pieces in marble and composition—benches beneath the cypress trees or by the pool—bird-bath and stately sun dial. There are three types of sundials, used in garden decoration; the spherical, consisting of a series of metal hoops on a pedestal which is commonest seen; the horizontal, with a raised gnomon, and the perpendicular.

Abroad, one often finds perpendicular sundials set in the wall of the house overlooking the garden; while unnecessary in this modern era as accurate timekeepers, there is something alluring about a sundial in a garden, and in selecting furnishings for the garden, it is well not to overlook the lovely ones of various types offered locally.

In order to contribute to garden beauty, the sundial must be beautiful in itself, and should be placed in a position where that beauty can be seen, at a focal point, in the center of the patio or courtyard or garden.

The decorative value of jars placed along terraces or at the terminus of little walks, backed with a trellis, is becoming more and more recognized, and they make lovely additions to the open spaces.

Wrought iron combined with wood or with marble is shown in a variety of designs especially for garden enhancing. On one of the upper floors of a local store, there is an Italian garden which is beautifully furnished in wrought iron, tables, chairs, stands of various kinds, strong, light and decorative. They seem to demand the companionship of iron grills and thick walls, and with the increasing number of Spanish, Moorish and Italian types of homes and patios and courts, we prophesy an increased ownership of such appropriate furniture.

Strong, graceful, lattice-work and shining white or delicately-tinted pieces in chairs, benches, pergolas, garden-seats and tables are shown in the big stores; garden furniture in woven reed and fiber, light and comfortable, is displayed, and there is little need for the outdoor spaces to be left entirely to birds and butterflies when appropriaate furnishings may be selected to fit every need, every taste, every pocketbook, and the reading, sewing, games, and tea hour be enjoyed out-of-doors on pleasant days.

Hold Meeting With Real Estate Officer

A preliminary meeting of members of the legislative committee of California Real Estate association held on call of Legislative Chairman William H. Akin, met October 2, in luncheon conference, with State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser and State Corporation Commissioner Edward M. Daugherty present. The most important matter considered at this conference was the inadequacy of existing regulatory laws affecting real estate investments.

Commissioner Daugherty promised to reduce to writing his recommendation that the word "securities" as contained in the so-called "Blue Sky Law" be more clearly and accurately defined.

Commissioner Keiser recommended a change in the realty law which would have the effect of making his function one of investment regulation rather than a police power as at present.

Leading realtors declared in favor of a more representative statute for licensing of persons to sell real estate in California.

Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena and Glendale realty dealers were represented at the meeting.

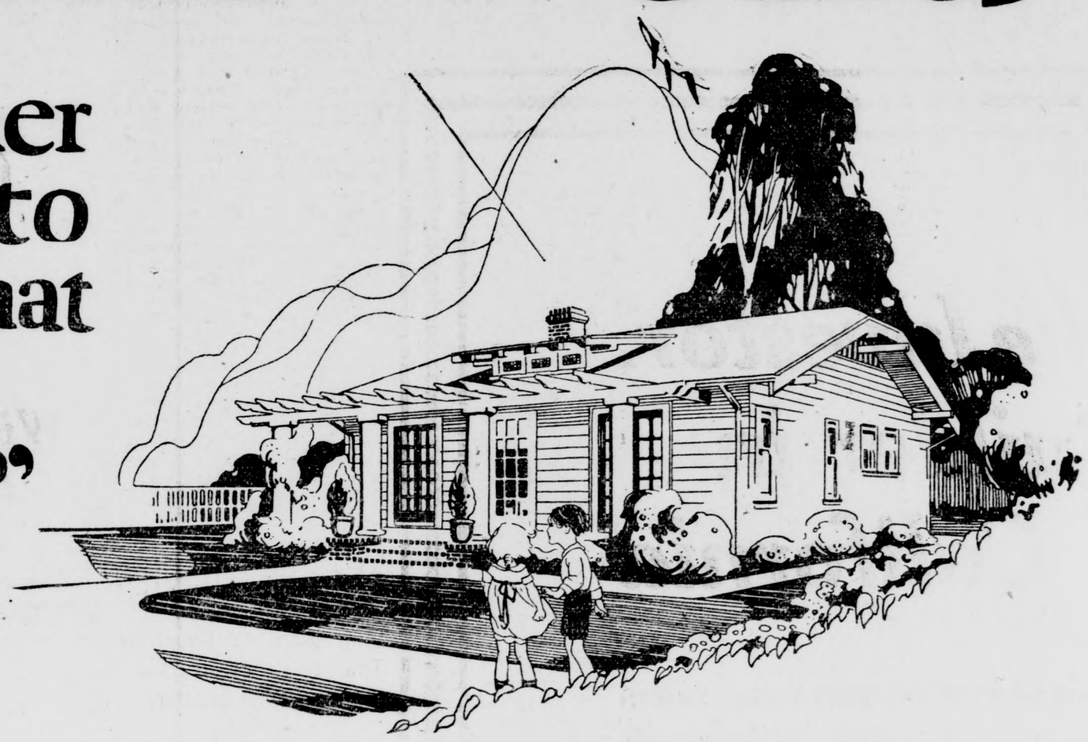
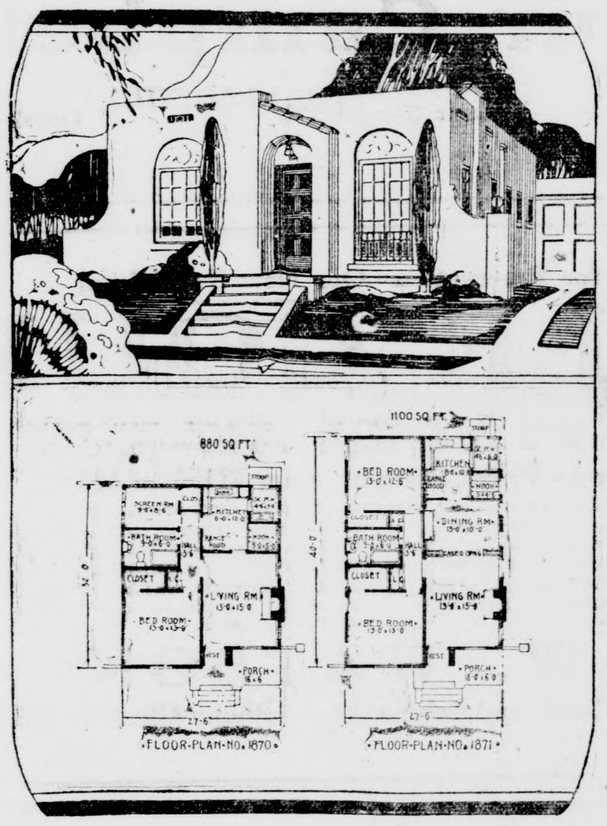
there's no other place so dear to you and me as that spot we call "home"





PLANS NO. 1870-1871

Surely you will like this ideal little home plan, for it represents so many carefully worked-out details that you have seen in homes costing thousands of dollars. It is not only attractive but just as practical as can be and the alternate floor plans offer such a variety of arrangements and conveniences, one of them will care for your needs.

Always we are endeavoring to submit for your consideration plans that will convey practical ideas and ones that you can adopt to build from, and we will welcome the opportunity of writing you fully about any of the homes illustrated on these pages.

HOMES, MORE HOMES, BETTER HOMES—These are the slogans of today. They are setting the American people to thinking as they never have in the past. We even have a national "Better Homes Week" once a year to impress upon us the importance of having a Home of Our Own, and making that home the very best possible.

There is no question about it—the dearest spot on earth to you is home—for it is there you expect to spend at least the greater portion of your life; there the children will be born and live to maturity, and should be reared 'mid ideal surroundings; there the beloved wife will devote the principal part of her time while you are at business and while the kiddies are at school.

Your new home is going to represent the fulfillment of so much in your life, it is wisdom for you to be careful in choosing the location, the plans, the building materials, and its furnishings.

Location plays a large part in the establishment of a successful home; among the things which should be considered are the character and desirability of the neighborhood. A thousand dollars' difference in the price of a lot often spells the difference between a neighborhood which is bound to run down in time and one which will improve with years. Schools, churches, playgrounds, library and transportation services are other enoveniences which are inseparable from the desirable homes of today.

The size and style of home will depend entirely upon individual taste, requirements and investment. The bungalow created in various designs to meet climate and building conditions, has in recent years proven itself America's most popular architecture, and, because of their inexpensive construction costs, conveniences and adaptability for any location, are rightfully entitled to the proud position they occupy. The two-story home, however, is, and always will be, adopted by those whose requirements call for a large number of rooms in housing their own families, friends and relatives.

The furnishings of the dearest place on earth should be the subject of much careful thought. A play-room for the kiddies, with a place for toys when not in use. The home library with book shelves or cabinets. The wife should be the one to furnish the bedrooms, also the bathroom. She will take an intense interest and realize a great joy in making these rooms places of daintiness and beauty. Living room, dining room, breakfast nook, den and library should be planned for service, and should be decorated to harmonize, and have hardwood floors if possible.

And then the lawn and the flower garden and the back yard, with shade and fruit trees and roses and vines climbing the side of the house and garage—ah, there's much in the making of a home, and you will grow into it naturally when you have once made the start.

Have you a home of your own? If not, now—today—is the time to take the first steps. This series of Home Building articles has been secured in order to inspire you to home owning and to aid you in choosing just the plan in meeting all of your requirements.

A Number of Progressive Firms and Individuals—all interested in you, and some your personal friends, are making this service possible for your benefit. They have retained the assistance of expert home builders, whose advice is yours for the asking. Drop an inquiry to the Home Building Editor, care this paper.

The following organizations, public-spirited firms and individuals, are anxious that you enter the charmed circle of home-owners. They want to be of every possible help to you and have retained the services of competent home designers who will gladly advise with you and give valuable assistance in planning your new home. # MANY REASONS IN RESIDENCE CHANGE

Combination of Features to Draw Investors; Sparr Heights In Demand

"When the 'old timers' in southern California, who are thoroughly acquainted with all the beauty spots of this 'Sunny South Land' move their homes to a new locality it is due to the fact that there is some strong attraction that leads them to change their abiding place. There must necessarily be a combination of many features. Scenic beauty, good transportation facilities and cultural environment all play their part in causing them to make a change," says Mr. Walters, sales manager for Francis-Barnum-Walters Co.

"It is because of these conditions which will exist at Sparr Heights, the magnificent tract of 1500 acres that is now being developed on both sides of the Verdugo road between Verdugo Woodlands and Montrose, that many of the old-time residents of Glendale are investing heavily in this new section.

Learn by History

"They know the history of Hollywood, Alhambra, Oneonta Park, Glendale and other local communities, that seem to have sprung over night from small villages into the full-fledged dignity of cities. They have seen values double, and double, and double again and fortunes made by those who 'Got in early.'

"This is evidenced by the fact that although the first unit of Sparr Heights has only been upon the market about three weeks we have sold some $400,000 worth of property in that time.

"Two large contracting firms have bought twenty-six and nine lots each respecively and, in order to meet a demand that has already made itself felt, will construct a number of artistic bungalows. As all designs for residences must, before construction is allowed, meet with the approval of our board of architects, assurance that these homes will be very desirable is made doubly sure.

"Plans are also being drawn for a number of stores in the business district. These must all be designed in the Old English style of architecture and when this business district is all built up along these lines it will prove very attractive to the eye.

Unified Central Plan

"Our dominant purpose in the development of Sparr Heights is that, as we proceed, each step taken will be in accord with a unified central plan. We realize that, with this wonderful combination of mountain, valley, hillside slope, elevated mesa and rugged promontory, we have a rare opportunity of creating a residential tract that will be a great departure from the ordinary flat land subdivision. With this end in view we are using the best technical talent and sparing no expense to create a beautiful, artistic and harmonious whole. There will be miles of broad, winding boulevards that will take one up to where they are met by picturesque bridle-paths that winding through shaly canyons will gradually lead to the crest of the hills from whence a view of the San Fernando and Verdugo alleys can be seen. Handsome parkways, a lovely park, an extensive golf-course and a community clubhouse are but a few of the many striking features of our development. When these choice homesites are occupied by the homes of the wealthy, cultured, leisure class this "heart of the Verdugos" will be famous throughout the United States for its beauty and charm."

Realty Boards for Law Being Stronger

A resolution adopted by the San Diego realty board for the strengthening of the real estate license law, is being passed on by realty boards throughout the state, according to the news department of the state association. This resolution calls on the state legislature to enact a law requiring "applicants for real estate license to pass a thorough examination in all branchse of the real estate business including real estate law and the preparation and use of all instruments."

PRICE-FIXING IN TOBACCO

The federal trade commission has issued formal complaints against the American Tobacco company, P. Lorillard company, and the Association of Wholesale Tobacconists of Milwaukee, manufacturers and distributors of tobacco and tobacco products.

The commission charges the respondents with unfair methods of competition in the maintenance of resale prices by entering into agreements among themselves to fix and maintain certain uniform prices at which their tobacco products shall be sold.

Sun Parlors Are Popular Part of Many Residences

While the golden haze of summer-time hangs over the land, then does the family stroll on terrace or lawn, through the garden, and linger on steps and porch, but when autumnal days arrive, even though Indian summer lingers, then does the sunroom preen itself preparing for a busy and popular season.

It is in California especially that sunrooms and screened and glassed porches become indispensable additions to the home. The ideal arrangement is to have a porch which is so arranged that the screens may be removed when cool days come, and glass windows and partitions fitted in their places, that every day may be an outdoor day.

Even the so-called wet season possesses but few days when the sun does not shine at least part of the day, and throughout the fall and winter in southern California, one may enjoy work and play on a porch screened from cool breezes yet admitting every ray of light and golden sunshine, which makes such a veranda or room a paying investment to a better home.

MOULDINGS HELP BEAUTIFY ROOMS

Belong More to Decorator Than to Carpenter; Aid Uninteresting Quarters

opportunity, who, if he is not an absolute Rip Van Winkle will glory in this opportunity to provide the means whereby he can make ungainly spaces interesting and create for his client something original, and for himself a means for the proper distribution of color for which the plain stretch of blank wall is often unsuited. Mouldings need not be plain for there are many patterns offered running the entire gamut from plain to the most ornamental period.

Give Room Distinction

The first aim of the decorator is to give a room the character of distinctiveness. This does not mean that it must be an expensive decorative scheme, nor need the room be a large one, neither is the task a difficult one. The essential is knowledge! Knowledge comes to us through many channels; study and thought, careful and keen observation, and travel are the means for obtaining suggestions and for thise who possess the means of the first two and are denied he means of travel we are going to give the opportunity to learn something of the possibilities that lie in the use of the things near at hand for the beautifying of their homes.

In the ordinary home the wall usually consists of a baseboard at the bottom (generally a very ugly and unfinished thing) door-frames, window-frames, and sometimes a strip of moulded wood at the top of the room. This arrangement is repeated in a million homes in the same tiresome way until it becomes monotonous and the soul of the home-maker cries out in despairing appeal "Give me liberty, or give me death," the latter in many cases being preferred. Suppose, however, the decorator steps in with the necessary knowledge and the confidence of the home-owner (which is absolutely essential) and places a moulding around the room, horizontally of course, 30 inches from the floor; this moulding should be flat with beveled edges, with possibly a groove or two running through the center; then on the upper wall he places vertical strips, one and one-half inches wide, six to nine inches from each corner of the room with two strips in the center of the space left if the space is a large one, placing these vertical strips as far apart from each other as the former strips are from the corner or door or window frame, and from these place horizontally connecting strips the same distance from the three-inch strip first mentioned and from the ceiling moulding or cornice, mitering the corners. This gives the room a high base, or wainscot effect with panels above. Fill in the upper panels with a colorful paper, such as may be found among the tapestries or stenciled designed papers and cover the stiling or plain spaces with a plain paper either in the same tones as is the ground of the figured paper in the panels or a trifle darker, then tint the mouldings exactly the same color or tone as the plain part of your paper and you can imagine how much more interesting your room will be than if it was treated in just the ordinary way.

Here's Another Way

Another simple way is to break up the monotony of too plain a room. We will suppose the walls of the room to be nine feet high and that the door frames are seven feet from the floor to the top of the frame; simply place a strip of wood with moulded edges on the wall around the room so that the top of the moulding comes three inches below the top of the door frame, or three inches below the top of the lowest opening, then place another strip around the room at the ceiling four inches wide, and one strip on the ceiling close to the strip on the wall, this strip to be two and one-half inches wide, the two strips thus placed close together will form a cornice; on the outer edges of both strips put a small half-round beading and in the angle where the two join put what is known as an angle bead. This will give your room an importance you had not dreamed of and will have added to it interest from an architectural point. Paper the ceiling with what is known as a plain brush tint in an ivory color and paint the cornice exactly like the ceiling. Paper the lower part of the wall with a well-designed paper and fill in the space between the seven-foot rail and the cornice with a paper like the ground of the wall, paint the rail the color of the ground, use a plain rug and plain overdrapes, call in your friends and let them rejoice with you in the interesting transformation that you have made by the use of a few mouldings well placed. I wonder if you have missed being impressed with one detail of this scheme, viz., the painting of these various rails the same color as the ground upon which they rest. This is done for the purpose of giving the room a more interesting structural detail and not to add color to the room.

Delightful Transformation

One room which has been treated with the addition of mouldings and which has thus been transformed into a very decorative and delightful room comes to mind and will be described because of its success. The owner of the room found herself one Christmas the owner of a beautiful grand piano of Louis the Fifteenth style, and a room to put it in of the nondescript type found in so many homes, with woodwork of the golden oak variety and plain, cold forbidding walls and ceiling without relief of any kind. The room was of the type that is the very pet aversion of the decorator. Add to that the sight of the beautiful piano and you can possibly experience the feeling of nausea the decorator felt. The commission, however, was carte blanche, so the first thing to do was to place the piano rightly in the room. After this was decided the walls and ceiling were laid out for moulded panels. The ceiling received a moulding around it twelve inches from the wall, with rococo corners. A cornice was placed in the angle of the wall and ceiling, and the four corners of the room, that is, the spaces each side the corners, were paneled in small, plain, moulded wood strips. In the center of the wall, or all the large spaces, panels were made with moulding of a design corresponding with the carving of the piano. The ceiling, all mouldings and the lovely (?) golden oak woodwork were finished in old ivory with plain paper on the ceiling and in the small panels and stiling, and flat paint on the woodwork. In the large panels was used a paper of French design (a floral in rococo style), the design being in bright colors on a jade ground, leaves of dark green interweaving with the beautiful pastel coloring of the flowers gave the right balance to the panels. A dark green plain rug was used and rose overdrapes with other small accessories to complete the room, the whole being a complete and appropriate setting for the beautiful piano and a comfort to the occupants. In the use of mouldings do not forget the nursery, for with the many papers for children's rooms mouldings can be used to great advantage.

The question naturally arises here—What about pictures? To which we answer, that pictures look better when hung in panels than in any other way. It seems to give them a special setting and an added interest.

One Has Choice of Many Designs; Experts Willing to Assist Selection

Of the making of new homes there is no end, and when one has a new home in mind, the first thing to do is to take stock of the kinds of homes it is possible to build, for you will be surprised at the strides this art makes each month in the year.

Here in California, where the scenery and climate and general cosmopolitan atmosphere permit of much elasticity of choice, one may press into service the building departments of the furnishing stores, where decorators are ready to be consulted and to advise, or they may go direct to building firms, which are always delighted to plan and suggest.

California redwood is a typical local material used, and its long-life and wearing qualities as well as its beauty and richness do much to recommend it. Other California or imported woods may be combined with it or used alone.

Makes Decided Appeal

Then there is stucco and hollow tile, so appropriate to warm countries, where it retains the coolness within the walls, and makes decided appeal when developed in forms long used in Spain and in Mexico. The houses made in such styles may be made of stucco or concrete or some other substance, and roofed with the dark red tile which is said to have been developed by the Mission fathers so many years ago, and which give an air indescribably picturesque to the home.

One may prefer shingles, or rough effects in woodwork. One may desire brick, and there are so many types of brick from which to choose, all the way from the glazed-in wanted color, through every variation.

Before deciding on a house, or an addition to a house, one should study the advertisements of the builders, and consult one or a dozen, if necessary, to choose the material best suited to one's taste, purpose and purse.

MATERIAL EXHIBIT PROVES BIG HELP

Emma J. Brainard In Charge of Display; Great Aid In Home Building

Whether one is planing a new home or simply interested in modern building materials and home products he will find the Glendale Builders' material exhibit, conducted by H. D. Charlton and C. H. Brainard, architects, in the Central building at 111 East Broadway, of real educational value.

The exhibit is maintained in suite 18 and 19 under the supervision of Emma J. Brainard and the really interesting feature of the exhibit is that the majority of departments represent Glendale firms. There the prospective home builder may find materials and ideas to be incorporated in the working out of his home plan. He may even visit the exhibit without any plan, with only a desire to build a home, for in the exhibit he will find one department devoted to house plans, any of which he may purchase, or may combine features from the various plans and incorporate them into one plan to purchase. This part of the exhibit is maintained by Charlton and Brainard, who originated the idea of the exhibit.

Many Other Decisions

After the house plan is decided upon there are countless other decisions to be made, such as choice of exterior finish, interior finish, lighting fixtures, kind of fireplace, bathroom and kitchen arrangements and fixtures, hardwood floors and many other things pertaining to the modern home.

Suggestions confront one on every hand in the exhibit. There is one department in which one finds various kinds of lighting fixtures for both ceiling and wall use, arranged by the Jewel Electric company.

Other firms exhibiting are the Stevens' Paint store, the Inlaid Floor company, A. T. Dobson, Petriwood, floors, drains, mantels and bath tub casings; the Concrete Brick and Tile company, Narver-Wold company wall beds, Howard Woodworking Shoppe, H. C. Boyer roofing and shingles, William H. Wilson, steel joists, and Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company and others.

Prove of Interest

Two partciularly interesting displays are those of the Tropico Potteries and the Peerless Built-in Furniture company. The Tropico people have arranged some of their most artistic and practical tiling in various styles and colors, adaptable in every type of modern home.

In the Peerless Built-in display one is attracted tby the kitchen nook, which can be shut neatly into the wall and opened out into a comfortable dining corner.

DECORATIONS AID IN REALTY SALES

Plenty Reasons Why Home Should Be Made Most Attractive by Owner

that a house well decorated appeals to the prospective buyer quicker and creates a desire for it sooner than any other phase of the consideration or any other feature of the house. It gives the realtor the opportunity of attacking his client in a vulnerable spot that otherwise he could not attack. Here, however, comes the objection that "it costs money" and that "the owner won't stand for it." An objection that is not well taken for the outlay should be counted as an investment and not as an expense. Suppose a house needing certain decoration is up for sale at a price of $10,000 but you cannot sell it because on the surface of it there is no appeal to your inquirer. You decorate it for $500 and ask $11,000. You now have one of the best talking points in your favor, namely, that all necessary expenditures have been made and the purchase price gives to the buyer a property ready for occupancy with no needed additional outlay, as against a property requiring an unknown sum to be expended upon it to make it habitable. You not only get a better price for your house, and a good return upon the sum expended in decorating it, but you accomplish the one thing desired and sell your property.

Investors Dodge Unknown

Realtors tell me what most prospective buyers fight shy of is buying a property requiring an unknown amount to be expended upon it. Consequently a decorated house will sell more quickly, will command a better price and give the purchaser greater satisfaction, which is a point worth considering if you want satisfied customers.

There is a feeling in the minds of some men that decorating is a mystical, intangible something, and that it belongs only to the rich or to the ultra-fashionable, also that it means elaborateness and excessive embellishment and requires a large expenditure of money that good decorators—and in decorating houses for sale none but good decorators should be commissioned — are expensive luxuries, whereas in all of these premises the opposite is the fact. Decoration in its true sense is not alone for the rich, it is often plain and lacking in embellishment, consumes but a moderate outlay and gives a greater return for the money.

Proving Decoration Pays

To prove that the decoration of the house which is offered for sale does pay, instances can be cited that have recently come to the writer's knowledge which illustrates the point. They are actual occurrences. Case No. 1 was that of a railroad official who, on account of removal from the city, desired to sell his home. It was a good property from a structural value and was comparatively new, well arranged and unusually well located but it was as barren as a desert and the cold white walls gave it a chilly aspect. The price asked was $12,000, but he failed to get a buyer. A decorator advised the decoration of the interior as an aid to selling it, but the owner jokingly said that the decorator would have to take the house for payment. A proposition was made that the decorator would take for payment the amount the owner could get over his present asking price, and while this proposition was not accepted the decorator did receive a commission to go ahead, but to keep within a certain limit and wait for his money until a sale was made. The terms were accepted and the rooms were decorated simply but effectively, harmony of color being used rather than elaborateness of ornament. The result was that the house sold for $12,500, the decorating costing but $480, which not only made for the owner a profit on the decorating but accomplished the more desirable object of effecting a sale.

Case No. 2 is an occurrence of later date, and concerns two houses nearly equal regarding size, location, age, number of rooms, etc. One has been on the market two years, but has had no buyer. It is neglected and the owner will do nothing to make it attractive. The other house was in much the same condition, but was taken hold of by a man who saw its possibilities. It was painted on the outside and attractively decorated inside, was put on the market and sold inside thirty days at a good price, paying the owner a good profit, the realtor handling the sale remarking that it was "the best sale that had been made in years, and that the decoration sold it."

All houses should have the essentials, good plumbing, heating facilities, etc., but if you would sell quickly and well, try the decorating game. There's money in it if you do it right. Remember that many people live on the theory that if they can get the luxuries the necessities will take care of themselves. The material at the command of decorators and home makers is more abundant than ever this season. Never were the wall papers so well adapted for the purpose under consideration, nor were they ever more delightful.

Stucco Admirable for Home Building

For hundreds of years stucco has been synonymous with dependability. Ancient palaces were built of this material, and on its surface were painted pictures which still preserve their fresh colors. He who builds of stucco has chosen a material able to withstand fire and weather and capable of decorative possibilities charming in the extreme.

NEW TRACT WILL SOON BE OPENED

San Fernando Boulevard Property In Big Demand, Says L. H. Wilson

Real estate is booming on San Fernando boulevard, according to Realtor L. H. Wilson.

A new tract of ten acres on the southwest side of San Fernando road, where it turns west at Pacific avenue,is to be put on the market by Mr. Wilson just as soon as it has been surveyed. This property has a frontage of 1400 feet on San Fernando road but half of it faces east and the other half north. It will be divided into sixty lots each 50 by 150 feet in size.

The construction of a large garage and automobile service station, 44 by 158 feet in size ,s being speeded up by Mr. Wilson. This is being built of brick but the front will be of ornamental brick. It has been leased for six years to Frank Miller of Highland Park who expects to bring a good deal of business with him to Glendale.

Three stores at 1012, 1014 and 1016 South San Fernando road in a brick and tile building, recently completed by Mr. Wilson have been purchased as an investment by Michael Berlin of Hollywood. The consideration was $12,000.

The 65-foot lot on which Mr. Wilson's windmill office is located at 1024 South San Fernando road has been acquired by Mr. Berlin also. The deal included the sale of the southeast corner of San Fernando road and Park avenue. This property has a frontage of 114 feet on San Fersando road and a depth of 135 feet. The price was about $100 a front foot.

Another sale made last week included the transfer of 120 feet on the east side of San Fernando road between Park and Acacia avenues to a banker in Hollywood.

The Burton Realty company last week acquired a lot, 88 by 200 feet in size, on the northeast corner of San Fernando road and Acacia avenue. It is understood that a building is to be erected there in the near future.

A store and apartment building on the northeast corner of Park avenue and San Fernando boulevard is nearing completion. Mr. Wilson believes that it will be one of the most substantial buildings in Glendale.

Four five-room bungalows are now almost ready for tenants around the corner east of San Fernando road on Garfield avenue. These are geing built by Contractor I. Cline.

In the near future Mr. Wilson who resides at 1015 Marcelle court, expects to have a new home built for himself at 434 West Acacia avenue.

"And to think," he remarked, recently, "that this was all prairie down here a short time ago."

Henry P. Barbour Urges Amendment 30

Declaring that the future of a greater California will be retarded by continued transportation troubles in population centers and that it is short-sighted policy not to take adequate measures to relieve traffic congestion, Henry P. Barbour, president of the Long Beach Realty board, issued a statement supporting amendment No. 30, known as the transportation amendment. President Barbour last year won the California Real Estate association trophy for the best five-minute talk on his home city.

"Transportation is the overshadowing problem before the communities of California," Barbour declared. "Few are aroused to the real menace to the reputation and development of Southern California which lurks in this transportation paralysis.

"Tourists and home-seekers will soon be discouraged from coming to our cities unless heroic measures are taken soon to get this great interlocking area out of its straitjacket.

"Not only must we have greatly improved local transportation, but we must shorten the time, lower the rates and improve the service between the network of California cities.

"The thing that is strangling transportation development is this outgrown franchise system which discourages capital from flowing into transportation developments and a lack of unified control which is necessary for regional planning.

"The California Real Estate association has studied the problem thoroughly through extensive surveys and has the remedy. It proposes to get standardized franchises and unified control through its transportation act which is the last amendment on the November ballot.

"This measure, we are confident, will make it possible to plan big improvements and carry them out in a big way. We promise the people better transportation and relief from traffic congestion through mighty improvements costing millions of dollars."

FALL BUYING OF REALTY STARTED

Lon J. Haddock Tells About Glendale Heights; Many Homes Under Way

Over $50,000 worth of property sold during the past week is the record for Glendale Heights, according to Lon J. Haddock, president of the Haddock-Nibley company.

"The fall boom in realty buying has started with a vengeance," said Mr. Haddock, "and, judging by the number of people who drove up on to the tract last Sunday and during the week thus far, there will be no cessation of it until the last lot is sold out on Glendale Heights."

Twenty homes are now up or in course of construction and contracts have been let for eleven more to begin at once so that the tract is fast assuming the appearance of a small village in itself. With the finishing of the hard surfacing of Adams street from Palmer avenue to the top of the hill, together with the completion of Marion drive, adjoining Green and Scofield drives, autoists are now able to traverse the various drives to the top of the hill in comfort.

A contract for the planting of trees has been let and these will adorn the down-hill side of every drive on the heights and both sides of the streets on the level land below.

Arrangements are also being made for the opening of Adams street to Verdugo road and when this is complete, the residents of Glendale Heights will be within one-half mile of a five-cent yellow car line.

"The people of Glendale are just awakening to the fact that the future residential section of the city must be southeast," said Mr. Haddock. "Its proximity to Los Angeles, the great metropolis of the southland, and to the outlet of the new subway, together with the natural attractive scenic advantages of this section are bound to make of Glendale Heights and its immediate vicinity one of the most beautiful residential districts in the entire southland."

A unique departure is the building of an open air pavilion in the beautiful grove on the hill-top crowning Glendale Heights, and Sunday, October 15, at 3 p. m., Mr. Haddock, who has achieved a wide reputation as a lecturer, will talk to the visitors on the Future Developments of Glendale.

An added feature of the day will be the presentation of toy balloons to every child coming to the tract accompanied by their parents, or an adult.

The grading of the hillside drives is now practically complete and according to present indications over 100 homes will be crowning the hillsides of Glendale Heights before the close of the present year.

BUILDING BETTER HOMES ALL TIME

Stevens Construction Concern Tells of Its Plans to Help Workmanship

The reputation of being "Better Home" builders fifty-two weeks out of the year is proudly claimed by the Stevens Construction company, with offices in Room 18, Central Building, 111 East Broadway.

"We are building up a better building business by building 'Better Homes' " is their claim.

The Stevens people also say, "The idea of having a better home week once a year is a very good idea as it gets the home building public to thinking a little more about material and workmanship of a quality that will last for years to come, thereby cutting down the heavy up-keep expense that is sure to come with a poor and cheaply-built home. Also it calls to attention the new and up-to-date labor-saving devices that make the 'Better Home' so convenient.

"But, should we think and talk 'Better Homes' one week out of the year and forget all about them the remaining fifty-one weeks? That is too much like being good on Sunday and something else the balance of the time.

"Our work in the past and our building now under way prove that we use the best of materials and employ only first-class workmen. Among the homes and buildings being built or completed by us during the past year are the C. & S. Cafeteria building: a double bungalow on Kenwood street near California avenue; C. W. Wright residence at 408 Cameron place; a bungalow at 1523 East Wilson avenue; home for Julius Kranz on the southwest corner of Mountain and Louise streets."

A hole seventy feet in diameter and 226 feet deep suddenly appeared in a wheat field of a farmer living near Bland, Mo. Water to a depth of 112 feet promptly filled the hole. Many scientists have visited the hole. Those who have descended to water level report no apparent inlet or outlet.
